Originator of Beaver Quota Dies at Rupert's House

James Watt, Hudson Bay Factor, Started Beaver Conservation

James S. G. Watt, for some forty years a resident of the Hudson's Bay area, where he was a factor for the Hudson's Bay Company, and who was the originator of beaver conservation in the vast North area, died at Rupert's House on July 10th. His name and personality should be long remembered for his work in beaver conservation. Few references have been made to the personal story of the late James Watt, but The Toronto Globe and Mail has a lengthy reference to his work for beaver conservation. The Globe and Mail says, in part:-

"As early as 1928, after watching diminishing returns of beaver pelts, Watt decided that it was imperative that some sort of quota should be established in regard to this fur producer. After four years of hard effort among the population near Rupert's House, he was able to convince them of the necessity.

In 1932 Mr. Watt approached the Department of Game and Fisheries in Quebec, with respect to setting aside a protected area which could be cropped yearly, thus assuring the Indian population of a respectable living without Government assistance, for all time.

"The Quebec government of that time set aside an area of 7,000 square miles. Survey of the area showed that it was populated by 159 beaver. The expense of maintenance of this huge area was borne by Mr. Watt until 1934 when the Hudson's Bay Co. realized that the original idea was producing results, and returned to Mr. Watt his out-of-pocket expenses, and took over the lease of the area.

"From this initial seed stock of 159 beaver in 1932, the census in 1944 showed over 12,000 parent stock after cropping 850 pelts in 1941, 1,800 pelts in 1942, and 2,000 pelts in 1943, in addition to the live beaver furnished to seven other areas now set aside.

"The area will come into full production in 1946, and it is estimated that a production of 4,000 pelts yearly can be maintained indefinitely.

This phenomenal increase in returns was due to Mr. Watt's efforts in convincing the Indian population of the benefits to be derived in future years. No trapping was permitted until 1941, and, while in 1932 relief was granted to the Indians, it is not necessary today, although the area does not reach full production until 1946.

"In 1938 from a sick bed in a North Bay hospital, Jim Watt wrote such a convincing letter to the Department of Mines and Resources at Ottawa, that the department embarked on a program of fur conservation. Thus, in 1938, from an area of 12,000 square miles, the program has been enlarged to cover an area of 64,000 square miles in the province of Ontario and Quebec, and is rapidly taking a national aspect."

he was employed by the Forestry Branch as district clerk and store-keeper.

He had been in poor health for a number of years. He commenced his holidays for this year on the first of the month, but was confined to his bed at his home on Tenth ave., where death occurred. The funeral service was conducted in the Church of the Transfiguration on Monday morning by Rev. F. Cournoyer, and interment followed in the Cochrane Roman Catholic cemetery. Pallbearers were six members of the Forestry department staff: Messrs. A. Hurd, C. Hurd, J. Fink, R. Sigouin, A. Bray and C. Lucas.

"Attending the funeral service from out of town were his son, Tpr. Tommy Goodwin, Tank Corps, Camp Borden, Mrs. Wm. Parent and Mr. and Mrs. G. Rochon, of Kirkland Lake, Mrs. L. Sweeney and daughter, Myrna, of Mattachewan, Mr. Jean Parent Kapuskasing, and Mr. P. F. Barry and son, Ansonville.

Mr. Goodwin is survived by his widow, the son mentioned above, and three other sons and three daughters at home: Billy, Larry, Victor, Betty, Joan and Roberts. His mother, Mrs. Jane Goodwin, and brother, Bill, are also living in England.

Sentenced to Year for Theft from the Bucovetsky Store

Interesting Point in Another Case at Police Court

Omer Martin was sentenced by Acting Magistrate S. C. Platus at police court Tuesday to one year in prison for breaking, entering and theft. He pleaded guilty. Between $200 and $300 worth of goods were stolen from Bucovetsky's Store at night, less than half being recovered.

The Crown agreed to withdraw charges of vagrancy against Antoine Portelance, Roger Barbeau and Marcel Timm. The young fellows were warned by the Magistrate that they would land in serious trouble if they did not settle down to proper ways.

Following a raid on a Sunday morning game in town, Aurele Tremblay was fined $20 and costs for having beer illegally, and 11 found-ins paid $10 and costs each.

Pleading guilty to the theft of a bicycle and also to "theft by trick," Anthony Robert Madeline was given a month on each charge, the terms to run concurrently. In the latter case, he took $7 from a woman to drive her to Sandy Falls but failed to try to fill the bargain.

Joseph Millette, Dan Simeruk, Earnest Cauchon and Robt. Martel were each given one day in jail, then to be taken to the recruiting station at North Bay for failure to observe the National Selective Service Mobilization regulations. The defence of one of them was that he had a glass eye.

Joseph Carbonneau was given a month for driving while drunk, this being his second offence.

A blind man visiting in town complained to police that a taxi driver had defrauded him in the matter of the purchase of a bottle of liquor. The final outcome was that each of the two men concerned was fined $100 and costs for illegally having liquor, which made that a very expensive bottle.

Four drunks (one a woman) each paid $10 and costs.

6 illegal parkings cost $1 and costs.

Using a defaced marker and careless driving each were assessed $10 and costs.

There was an interesting point raised by Crown Attorney S. A. Caldbick in a case where a man was charged with

FOR VALOR

Timmins firemen had only two calls during the past seven days. The first of these was on Monday at 2:27 a.m. when there was a verbal call from the police department to 21 Maple Street North, the premises of Fong Brothers, laundrymen. It was only a chimney fire but it made so much smoke that it appeared as if neighbouring buildings might be on fire. The laundrymen had to rinse out some clothes that were smoked up.

The second call was on Tuesday at 5:07 p.m. to the corner of Mountjoy and Bannerman avenue. The call was due to a short circuit in the wiring of a truck. The wire made a lot of smoke and the truck driver took no chances but called the brigade. There was no damage.

Haven't you ever talked over the back fence?

MAYBE you have a neighbour who doesn't know what it's all about when it comes to raising cucumbers. Or perhaps he hasn't a knack with roses. So you tell him what spray to get, or you give him a little lesson in pruning. And next thing you know he says: "I'm certainly sold on that advice you gave me."

And that's how progress comes about. A fellow comes along who knows more than you do about life insurance, for instance, and first thing you know you see a way to protect yourself and your wife and the kiddies, a plan you might never have thought of, yet it seems easy once you start.

If there were no salesmen, hundreds of thousands of people now insured would be without the security they enjoy. So many people put off till tomorrow what they should do today—so many neglect provision for the future. That is why the helpful neighbours who sell life insurance have become such great instruments in the promotion of thrift.
