

Dropped Between Stitches

The Silver Patch
"Quick! come and look," she said to me. It was a most impressive sight. A sullen sky, a blackish sea, but yet one patch of silver light. It looked as if some one cast upon the sea bright silver lace, and unseen hands were holding fast so that it moved not far from that place.

A leaden sky—please visualize—a blackish sky and sea to match, and then to gladden heart and eyes that one amazing lovely patch. "How strange, you'd never think!" she said. "to see a silver pool of cheer when round about, and overhead, it's all so black and cold and drear."

She added, "Thus it is in Life. We don't expect to find a gleam, and so we see but hate and strife reflected in a muddled stream. Were we to look, perchance we'd find just such a patch as over there. We note the gloom but oft are blind to shining bits exceeding fair."

With spectacular Russian advances on the Eastern front and the distance between Allied forces and Berlin being whittled down, people are talking with renewed enthusiasm about a European peace in 1945. It certainly is the fervent hope of everyone that these prophets are right; one hundred per cent; but what of the peace? Some high ranking officials connected with usually well informed sources are already warning the people of the United Nations that the drums of world war No. 3 are already rumbling in the distance.

Women have played a very active and effective role in the present conflict and will, no doubt, have a corresponding part to play when peace comes.

We have learned, or should have learned by now, that our enemies are not the type to be handled with kid gloves. Past history has taught the people of the world that treaties and promises contracted with our present enemies are not worth the paper on which they are written. It is to be hoped that the mothers and wives and widows of our gallant fighting men will assert every ounce of their influence to have a voice in the winning of the peace. Below we quote from an article published by the British Information Services which is worthy of earnest thought if, for a moment, our people ever feel tempted to relax into a state of compacency and pacifism once this nightmare of a war is over. Don't forget science marches on, the robot bombs will not be restricted to the European continent if we are faced with another world war twenty five years from now.

"Once or twice every night the people of London will hear the siren which precedes the hoarse roar of the flying bombs and hold their breath during the sickening silence before the crash. Each night they go to bed not knowing whether a scientific robot will fall from the sky and destroy them.

"This monstrous machine that rides the skies beyond human control seems to the people to have a power of evil greater than anything that has gone before.

It has had an immeasurable effect quite different from that which the Germans intended. British people are frightened, but theirs are not present fears; they are for the future. The possible future—or the absence of it—which the flying bomb portends.

The first intimation of the next war may be an ultimatum or a threat that "some cities will be blasted next morning" said General Frederick Pile, chief of Britain's Anti-Aircraft Command, recently. "That is what the flying bomb has brought to us. It is the beginning of new type of war."

"That is what frightens the people of Britain—the beginning of a new type of war. It would indeed be a war to end all war, and possibly all human endeavour."

The real psychological effect of the flying bomb is to be found in the stiffening of an already relentless resolve to crush now, once and for all, those who have cultivated the lust for war and to enforce a peace in which such people are kept firmly under control."

The first 1945 meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Mary's Hospital is scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 1st, from 2 - 4 p.m. in the Nurses' Auditorium. The ladies of Timmins and Schumacher are earnestly invited to be on hand for this meeting in order that a large amount of necessary work may be accomplished. Please come along and bring a friend!

Brrrrrrr! it's cold but even with the thermometer hovering down around 25 and 29 below zero the students of fourth and fifth forms of Timmins High and Vocational School are planning a sleigh ride for Friday at 7:30 p.m. starting from the High School. The sleighing enthusiasts will return to the school where the remainder of the evening will be spent dancing and refreshments will be served. Here's hoping the mercury gets ambitious enough to climb a little higher and that the North West wind gets a little tired before next Friday night. Otherwise the sleigh ride won't be so hot.

The ladies of Nursing Division No. 80 of St. John's Ambulance Brigade are holding a Bake Sale in the I. K. Pierce Furniture Store on Third Ave., next Saturday, Jan. 27th, from 2 to 6 p.m. Proceeds of the sale will be handed over to the Canadian Legion Overseas Fag Fund. Everyone is acquainted with the very fine work accomplished by the Fag Fund, large quantities of cigarettes are sent overseas each month to local men in the services, the money being raised locally. To date almost five and three quarter million cigarettes have been shipped through this fund at a total cost of almost nineteen thousand dollars. Now that's an accomplishment worth more than a mere mention but the figures prove what a grand job is being done in keeping the local boys well provided with fags. Please make a point of getting to the sale early as these ladies have a fine reputation for making good things to eat and it will also help solve the problem of making those butter and sugar rations stretch a little farther because it will solve your week-end baking problems. So it's a date ladies Saturday afternoon at the I. K. Pierce Furniture Store.

The following is an extract from "The Charlady" in "News":—

"So it's very interesting knowing all that, I'm beginning to think it's too bad they never had Captain McMoran 'n Mr. King to tell all the alleys the right way to get an army at the start off—getting 'm to join up so quick you can't tell how many they is in 'n them saying they don't hafta go actual if they don't want—steads having rescription like all teh others does. N of they'd all took their da'vece I guess the war woulda been ofer long ago—only I wouldn't want the alleys would a won't."

A pre-Lent social event scheduled to take place on Saturday, Feb. 10th, is to be held in the hall of St. Matthew's Anglican Church. The affair is to be a Valentine Tea at which there will also be a Tea and Apron booth.

The ladies who have attended any of these affairs in the past need not be reminded of the pleasant afternoon that can be spent at a tea sponsored by the ladies of the Anglican Guild and those who have never attended one should make a point of going to see what they have been missing this long while.

"Tis whispered that an attractive blonde in the Northern Ontario Power Co. office is planning on saying "I do" in the very near future to a serviceman who is spending a twenty-eight day furlough at home after serving overseas for five years. Best wishes and all the luck in the world!

Mountjoy United Church, Timmins, has Satisfactory Year

Excellent Reports Presented at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Mountjoy United Church was held on Tuesday evening at which reports for 1944 were received, and new officers elected to the board of the church. The membership stands at 233 of whom 28 are non-resident and another 20 are absent on active service. The Committee of Stewards reported $200 more raised for local expenses than in 1943, but the expenses were higher. Total raised for missions by all organizations was $510 which is nearly $100 more than in 1943. During the year the building debt of $8200 with which the church opened three years ago, was finally liquidated in June with payment of $1000 on accounts. Total receipts from all organizations amounted to $6450.

Mrs. Flannery said that members were most concerned with deterioration of quality, shortage of supply and discounting and overcharging on the part of some retailers. The general policy of wartime control was approved and in the opinion of the members it had been the economic salvation of Canada.

Mrs. Flannery paid tribute to the newspapers and radio stations and her various committees throughout the North because she felt that consumers and business places alike were well informed on orders and regulations of the prices board.
