

Successful Candidates in Toronto Conservatory of Music Examinations

One Hundred and Forty-five successful Pupils at Timmins. Thirty-nine Pass with First-Class Honours, Seventy-one with Honours. Total of 119 Pass with Honours. Success of Pupils Here Worthy of Special Note.

The following is a list of the successful candidates in examinations held recently by the Toronto Conservatory of Music in Timmins. The names are arranged in order of merit.

There are some features of the list that are worthy of special note. One of these is the large number passing with honours. Out of 145 candidates passing, 110 (or over 75 per cent) passed with honours. Of these passing with honours 39 took first-class honours. The results appeared to speak particularly well for the talent of the pupils and the success of the music teachers of the town and district.

Viggo Kihl Dies Suddenly of Heart Attack at Toronto

Timmins friends will deeply regret to learn of the death of Viggo Kihl, the famous Danish pianist, who died suddenly at Toronto on Wednesday morning from a heart attack. This gifted musician was well known and very popular here, where his charming personality, as well as his musical talent, made deep impression. In March of 1943 he conducted examinations here for the Toronto Conservatory of Music, and in addition presented notable programmes of music under the sponsorship of the Porcupine Music Teachers' Association. The event was held at the home of Mrs. Ronald Vary, Buffalo Ankerite property, and will long be remembered by music-lovers in the Porcupine Camp. Also in February, this year he conducted a series of lectures to members of the P. M. T. A. in the Timmins Radio station.

Twelve-Year-Old Lad Killed When Car Hits Bicycle

Jean Girouard, Popular and Esteemed Lad, Loses Life
in Tragedy on Saturday

Jean Girouard, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Girouard, Riverside Drive, across the river, met sad and sudden death on Saturday afternoon when a car crashed into the rear of the bicycle the lad was riding not far from his home. The boy was killed instantly being thrown a considerable distance and sustaining fatal injuries.

An inquest is to be held this week into the circumstances of the fatality. The funeral of the lad was held on Tuesday morning, with services at Notre Dame de Lourdes church. The lad was an enthusiastic Boy Scout and it is said that recently he suggested that he would like to have Boy Scouts as pallbearers when he should die. His wish was more than granted for not only were the six pallbearers all Boy Scouts, but the whole Troop to which he belonged returned from their annual camp to pay honour to their dead comrade. If Jean loved the Scouts, the Scouts also loved and honoured him, for they esteemed him as a real "good Scout". Jean was popular with all who knew him and there is genuine sorrow at his untimely death. In addition to his parents, he is survived by a brother and sister younger than himself, and an adopted sister 15 years old.

Several Thousand Dollars Damage Done by Fire and Water to Woolworth Bldg.

Fire Thought to Have Started from Electric Outlet Fixture Runs Up Wall and Gets Into Insurance Office and Law Office. Chief Damage from Water. No Fire in the Downstairs Part of the Woolworth Store. Fire All Out in About an Hour

Fire Thought to Have Started 12 p.m. At 2.09 yesterday afternoon the firemen were called to what threatened for a time to be a very serious fire. The good work of the Timmins brigade, however, averted the danger, and the fire was all out in about an hour.

The fire was in the building generally known as the Woolworth building, part of which is owned by J. R. Gori-on, and part by Steinberg and Sax. The Woolworth store occupies a lot and a half, the lot being the Gordon property and the half lot owned by Steinberg and Sax. On the ground floor the other half of the Steinberg and Sax lot is occupied by the Royal lunch. The fire started in the Woolworth part of the building. Judging from the way the fire burned and the direction it took, Chief W. Stanley believes that it started from an electric outlet fixture and promptly spread up the wall and then along the ceiling of the Steinberg and Sax part of the structure, this part, No. 9 Third avenue, being occupied upstairs by the law office of W. Shub and the office of the North American Life Insurance Co. There was no fire downstairs in any part of the buildings, all the fire being above the electric outlet fixture and running up as fire usually does. The fire did do considerable damage to the upstairs of the premises. The greatest loss, however, is from smoke and water damage. The large stocks of the Woolworth Store came in for a serious soaking, and the stocks including cards and stationery damaged by the water and smoke. All the losses are covered by insurance, it is understood. There is no official estimate of the loss as yet, but it is certain that it will run into thousands of dollars.

The fire was a difficult one to fight, as there was so much smoke and it took skill to locate the fire itself. The firemen are being given praise for their good work, while some of the old-timers recall the previous fire in the same premises over twenty-five years ago, on a winter night with the thermometer going as low as 40 below.

Timmins Kiwanis Enjoy Graphic Account of Life in the Arctic Circle

Kiwanian Karl Eyre, Former Member of the R. C. M. P., Gives Entertaining Story of Things he Saw and Heard in the Far North. Business Part of Luncheon Monday Dealt Chiefly with Results of the Spring Appeal.

The address at Monday's luncheon of the Timmins Kiwanis Club at the Empire hotel was interesting, entertaining and informative. The speaker was Kiwanian Karl A. Eyre, and his topic was "Life in the Arctic Circle." The address dealt with the days when Kiwanian Eyre was a member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and served in the far north.

"Twenty-seven years ago," he commenced, "I was sleeping one night on the way to Chesterfield Inlet underneath a canoe, but in the morning I woke to find the canoe was gone. Some of those Arctic mosquitoes had sunk their teeth into the canoe and could not get the molars out again, so they simply flew away with the canoe. That is about how big and powerful the mosquitoes are in that country, and everything else is on the same immense scale." Kiwanian Eyre used a large map to point out the places in the arctic where his duties had called him. Pointing to Fort Churchill he mentioned that there had been agitation to have a harbour there, but the coast was not suitable. Another place he referred to was Southampton Island, where there had been an airport during the war. Much of the land he had travelled in that northern country had been barren land. All through that country it was necessary to have a guide. The magnetic pole affects the compass thus making it difficult to travel unless one is fully acquainted with the land and its peculiarities.

A very interesting part of the address was Mr. Eyre's description of the Eskimos and their way of living. He gave very detailed directions for building an igloo, the Eskimo form of house, emphasizing its advantages and handicaps. In the far north it was necessary to have women travel with any party, as the women did any mending necessary and looked after other matters. He described the way the Eskimo women dry clothing by beating it with sticks. He was on one whaling expedition, but that was enough for him. The Eskimos live their simple lives by hunting and fishing. So far as game was concerned and profitable other denizens of the arctic circle, Mr. Eyre made passing reference to the walrus, polar bear and porpoise. Mr. Eyre also roused much interest in his address by the striking photographs, taken by himself which he displayed. Graphic description was given of the Eskimo penalties for such serious crimes as murder.

The vote of thanks moved by F. Feldman was carried very enthusiastically. Mr. Eyre was introduced by another member of the club, Secretary W. H. Wilson.

Kiwanian Fred Burt was the winner of the weekly war savings certificate. In the absence of President Frank Bailey, the vice-president, Geo. N. Ross, was in the chair for the day.

E. H. King of the annual spring appeal committee, was happy to state that the club members had done a fair job this year, and the general result was pleasing. The club would make about $1,400.00. This was exclusive of the dance last Friday night.

Bob Mennie, chairman of the spring appeal committee, spoke along similar lines, complimenting the workers on their effective efforts.

Visitors for the day were Kiwanian V. Woodbury, of San Antonio, Texas, and Kiwanian Walker, of Hamilton.
