Rescues Finnish Boy, Three Years Old, From Danger

South Porcupine, July 25th. Special to The Advance.

Mr. Carl Reilly deserves honorable mention in our column this week.

On Monday evening he was in his garden on Strachan Ave., when he thought he heard the cry of a child. He listened and it seemed to come from the marsh land by the creek. It stopped for a while, but shortly commenced again. Reilly went in the direction to investigate and guided by the cries came upon a little Finnish boy, about three years old, hanging on to some grass by the steep slippery side of the creek, with one shoe gone and his feet in the water. The child had slipped on the muddy bank and had grasped the grass to prevent himself from going in to the water, which was deep enough to drown him.

He was rescued just in time as the poor little fellow was exhausted and it was almost dark.

Reilly took the child home and phoned the police.

They had been notified by the child's mother, who had lost him and was frantically searching everywhere for him.

The child had wandered all the way from his home near the airport and had been missing for some time. But for Reilly's humane feeling for a child who was crying, this story might have a different ending.

HAD A GRIEVANCE

A man burst into the office of a railway official and demanded that the driver of the 12:15 express should be forbidden to blow the whistle on Sunday mornings.

"Why, that's impossible! What leads you to make such an unreasonable request?"

"Well, our vicar preaches until he hears the train whistle—and that confounded express was 40 minutes late last Sunday!"—Globe and Mail.

Some Stories

BUSINESSLIKE

His great love made the young man very eloquent.

"You are the most beautiful girl I have ever seen," he murmured, "I long to hold you in my arms, to kiss your lips, your eyes, to whisper in your ear 'I love you!' I—"

But the business like young lady cut him short.

"Well," she suggested, "I suppose it can be arranged."—Globe and Mail.

BOTH WRONG

An airman on leave, after a festive night in a friend's flat, found himself in hospital with an anxious-looking friend beside the bed.

"What happened?" he inquired.

"You thought you could fly from that sixth-floor window instead of bothering with the lift."

"Good lor, man, why didn't you stop me?"

"Well, I thought you could."

TIME NEEDED

The boxer who knew practically every trick in the game finally met his match. In the third round he found himself on his back, listening to the referee counting over him.

"One," roared the referee, "two, three, four, five, six, seven."

The fighter reached up and grabbed the referee's wrist.

"I'm a little hard of hearing," he interrupted. "Would you mind repeating that?"—North Bay Nugget.

EXPLAINED

Inquiring Friend—Why must a judge look so impressive?

His Honor—If you show any signs of interest in a lawyer's argument he'll never stop.

NOT ENCOURAGED

"I'll teach you to make love to my daughter."

"I wish you would, Old Man; I'm not making much progress."

THE URGE

Uncle Joe—"I hear that your mother doesn't have trouble making you practice on the piano any more."

Billy—"Oh no. You see, the neighbors hate to hear me, and now I think it's fun practising."—North Bay Nugget.

PRECISELY

"Now you men," roared the sergeant-major as he dismissed the company, "you will parade again at two o'clock precisely. And when I say two o'clock precisely, I don't mean five past, I means five to."—Sudbury Star.

READY TO MAKE EXCEPTION

A celebrity seeker approached Groucho Marx at a party. "You remember me, Mr. Marx? We met at the Robinsons' some years ago."

"I never forget a face," Groucho replied, "but I'll make an exception in your case."—Strand.

Astonished, the newly-fledged father stared down at the triplets and exclaimed: "That fortune-teller spoke the truth—she said I should beware of some small bald-headed people I would meet soon."—Successful Farming.

Sudbury Star:—Looking speculatively at Fats Goering one can't decide whether the best method of execution would be to make him fast until he collapses or to let him eat until he bursts.

Brantford Expositor:—Chiang Kai-shek has urged the Allies to supply Chinese troops with sufficient arms and munitions to permit them to bear the brunt of the fighting on the Asiatic mainland. The justice of this plea will be appreciated no doubt by the governments which permitted and the firms which shipped cargoes of nickel and scrap-iron to the Japanese nearly up to the date of Japan's treacherous attack in 1941.

Irish Bull:—I smell a rat, I see it floating in the air; but mark me, I'll nip it in the bud.
