If You Drink, Don't Drive
If You Drive, Don't Speed
Chief Of Police Urges

Safety Precautions Must Be Increased During The Christmas Holiday Time

"Don't let an auto crash spoil your Christmas," is the warning given to motorists at this season by Chief of Police Leo H. Gagnon.

Coupled with this is the Chief's annual suggestion that men turn their car keys over to their wives' custody during Christmas week.

"More men drink one too many than women, during the holiday celebrations," Chief Gagnon commented. "Perhaps if the men turn the keys of their cars over to their wives the number of accidents might decrease."

Police files have in the past disclosed an unnecessary number of accidents during the holidays. The files show, too, that most of the accidents happened at intersections and could have been avoided if the drivers had taken extra precautions.

"The intersection hazard is always great in the winter when streets are slippery, and the driver who pulls away from the curb, without first looking carefully to see if the road is clear, is a hazard at all times," the Chief stated.

All police have been warned to show no mercy to drunken drivers. "I am making an earnest plea to automobile drivers to exercise caution during the holiday season, and I am also warning motorists against unnecessary driving during the next week," the Chief concluded.

SAFETY SLOGAN

Here are some safety slogans that are aimed at both drivers and pedestrians.

A loose nut at the wheel isn't as bad as a tight one.
To avoid that run-down feeling walk safely.

Jaywalking is just a short-cut to the coroner.

When backing up your car, trust to lock, and not to luck.

Driving a bargain is okay, if it is in good condition.

Death takes no holiday but it does take a lot of holiday drivers.

If you're as bright as your lights you'll dim them.

Many a pedestrian walks himself to death.

Court on the highway and be wheeled into court.

Many a guy who tries to pass everything on the road ends up following a wrecker.

More Shortening and Lard Promised For Timmins Housewives

Housewives who may have had difficulties obtaining shortening and lard should find the supply easing slightly during the next few weeks, War-time Prices and Trade Board has announced.

Double the weekly distribution of shortening was made available the week beginning Dec. 10. This represents an increase of about 1 1/2 million pounds and, even though it falls short of meeting the full demand, will still be a help in preparation of Christmas delicacies.

As for lard, in the first half of January additional supplies will be available in stores, although the bulk of it will go to industrial users and logging camps. This lard represents a total of about five million pounds purchased in the U. S., in a further effort to relieve the shortage of edible fats. Distribution of the supply is being arranged through the Fats and Oils Administration of WPTB and the bulk of it will be handled through authorized distributors in carlots. Canadian users of lard will benefit in that a greater amount of the domestic output will be available for general distribution.

The Commodity Prices Stabilization Corporation has also purchased roughly 5 million pounds of shortening in the United States and with these additional supplies, says F. H. Lehberg, Oils and Fats Administration, WPTB, it is hoped to maintain distribution at present levels, or 80% of the 1941 usage.

The world supply of fats and oils, however, still remains below normal and the quantities of fats and oils available for allocation by the Combined Food Board fall far short of meeting the needs of member nations.

Excessive Drinking Proves Expensive, Police Court Shows

Eight men appeared at a Wednesday morning court session to answer charges arising from a variety of causes.

First to come before the Magistrate were two persons charged with drunkenness, the celebrating pair netting fines of $10, and costs of ten days. Charges of disorderly conduct arising from an open air fisticuff exhibition drew fines of $10, and costs of ten days for the participating pugilists. The two men involved, it was learned, had presented considerable trouble to police officers effecting the arrest.

A refusal to heed the advice of police officers and resulting attempt to obstruct an arrest, brought another two men before the Magistrate. The trouble arose after the police had asked the pair to escort their rather unsteady friend to his home. The request was repeated after the first refusal and immediately the unco-operative couple resorted to battle. Their attempts cost the offenders $25, and costs of 30 days. Two cases were remanded until Dec. 27.

The first of these, arising from alleged non-support of wife and family, was remanded with bail for the offender set at $100, or $200, properly.

The second remand was given a case of reported assault, bail being set at $50, or $100, property. The arrests of those appearing in court were effected the previous night.

Hospital Would Like More Nursing Grads

No More Trainees Needed Locally At Present

While there are a sufficient number of student nurses at St. Mary's Hospital at present, graduate nurses are still required, The Advance learned this week. Receipt of an appeal from the Registered Nurses Ass'n of Ontario prompted the inquiry.

The next term of training in the local hospital does not begin until September next. Applicants must be 18 years old and in possession of junior matriculation.

During the course here, the nurses in training spend five months in classes before going into hospital work and spend a period of one month under complete hospital supervision and under the clinical supervisor, Miss Anthony.

The course continues for three years, at the end of which time successful trainees receive their diplomas as graduate nurses. At present there are 48 student nurses in St. Mary's and 21 graduate nurses on the staff.

Other centres are evidently not so fortunately placed in this respect. "A number of excellent hospital schools of nursing are still able to accommodate a limited number of applicants for classes commencing in January and February," stated Miss Jean I. Masten, President of the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, this week.

"These schools offer a splendid education for a career in a field in which demand will continue to get greater," Miss Masten added, pointing out that, among factors which will contribute to an unprecedented demand for nursing service, are increased hospitalization, due in part to the increasing popularity of hospital insurance plans, and increased interest in and demand for public health service for all.

"Nursing is not only a whole field of careers," stated Miss Masten. "The girl entering nursing today may, of course, find a career in bedside nursing, and there is no finer way in which she can use her nursing skills. But, on the other hand, if she prefers, she may enter the public health field, or the field of hospital administration, or the educational field. No matter what her particular tastes and talents may be, nursing has an interesting future to offer her."

Girls wishing to obtain information available for allocation by the Combined Food Board fall far short of meeting the needs of member nations.

about schools of nursing having vacancies in January classes may do so by writing the Registered Nurses Ass'n of Ontario, 86 Bloor St., West, Toronto 5.

Butter Ration Drops One Ounce Per Week

Because butter production during November dropped 12.9% compared with the same month in 1944 and because the winter months are, in any case, a period of low production, War-time Prices and Trade Board has announced a cut in the butter ration from 7 to 6 ounces per person per week, commencing in January.

The reduced ration will be in effect through the winter months and will be restored as soon as supplies permit, probably next April.

Similar reductions during the low production winter months have been made during each of the past three years. The cut will be spread over several months to avoid a more drastic curtailment of severe shortage later in the winter. No change will be effected in coupon values and the reduction will be achieved by skipping a coupon every fourth week instead of every eighth week, as is the case at present. The first coupon will be dropped on January 3rd.

W. M. S. Members are "Mystery Mothers" To C. G. I. T. Group

In a delightful setting of evergreens, candles, lighted tree, with a memorial stencil background of the shepherds, the wise men, and the scene of the Nativity, the December meeting of First United Church Women's Auxiliary was held on Thursday afternoon.

A brief business session with the President, Mrs. W. M. Mustard in the chair preceded the special program. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. S. Ireland, Treasurers report was given by Mrs. H. Trauer and report of the nominating committee presented by Mrs. I. M. Gordon.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Wignhart's group and took the form of a very lovely Christmas carol service. The music was under the direction of Mrs. Percy Carson, solos by the children being a particularly delightful feature. Among those taking part were: Anne Osborne, who sang "O Sing a Song of Bethlehem"; Roland Barber, "O Little Town of Bethlehem"; Isobel Rose, "Silent Night! Holy Night"; Jean Huckerby, "O Little One Holy"; (a carol from the church in Angola, Africa)

Leaders in the service were Mrs. A. Jackson and Mrs. Hansauld, who gave the Scripture readings telling of the first Christmas. Prayer of thanksgiving for the ending of the war, and dedication to the cause of lasting peace was made.

Miss Ruth Wardlaw's Christmas Story, well deserved the comment (a beautiful story, beautifully told.)
