Kiwanians Hear of War Efforts By Canada's Railways

Recent Cases Startling In Implications, P. T. Moislely Tells Club Members

The regular weekly meeting of the South Porcupine Kiwanis was held in the Airport Hotel on Monday.

The guest speaker, Mr. Milas Clark, was unable to attend owing to illness, but submitted his address "Canada's railroad wartime effort" which was read by the President.

Mr. Clark began by stating that the topic was of his own choosing, as a railroad man for thirty-five years.

Mr. Clark went on to say that the Canadian National Railway operates 23,000 miles of lines, which, with its added sidings, etc., was almost long enough to gird the earth at the equator.

Mr. Clark continued, "our entire railways were taxed to the limit in handling troops and produce of industry and agriculture, and with the German submarines in the St. Lawrence river, the use of that waterway was limited, and often necessitated rail delivery as far as Halifax.

During the war year never once was there a sit-down or labor lockout involving railroad employees.

Guests for the evening included Ven. Archdeacon Woodall and Mr. Burt Bainard of the Sudbury Kiwanis.
