

Youngster's Long Record Earns Him Three Months'

had nothing to say in his defence. Marie Bruno said they had been on friendly terms but that now she wanted nothing to do with him.

Roland Houle, of no fixed abode, was haled to court on a charge of theft of barber's tools and was placed on a $200 bond to keep the peace for one year plus making restitution.

Houle had been employed by a Timmins barber and had been buying tools on the barber's account and selling them, it was stated. Houle had already made some restitution for the goods.

The magistrate ordered that the tools be paid for in one month. Said the magistrate "and you're not to be stealing barber's tools to repay this, understand?"

The amount payable was $4.75 arising from a white coat, a comb and brush.

Phillip Marchand of Cochrane was remanded until next week when he will appear on charges of theft and the possession of a registration card bearing another person's name.

Marchand is alleged to have stolen a clock from a local hotel, and on this he was first arrested. The registration card is reported to have been on his person after his arrest.

Bail was set at $50.

Fred Rossey of 1 Riverside Drive was remanded until next court when he will appear on a charge of dangerous driving. Bail is set at $1000.

The charge was laid following an accident last week in which three people were injured.

conduct netted the offender a fine of $5 and costs.

Five parking infractions drew the parties involved fines of $1 and costs as did a single case of failing to stop at an intersection. One party failed to appear in court to answer charges of illegal parking and drew a re-issuance of his summons.

Adjourned until next Tuesday's court was a case under the D.W. and M.C. act and a case of an alleged infraction of W.P.T.B. regulations.

THE LEGION COLUMN

Our jovial member, Jim Salamone, seemed in a cheerful mood on Saturday morning, all spruced up, carnation and all. He had just welcomed his daughter-in-law from England, so we welcome Mrs. Nick Salamone to Timmins.

Bert, reports the doings at the celebration of Vimy.

The yearly celebration of the capture of Vimy Ridge, Apr. 9, 1917, was rather a quiet affair at the Legion Hall, about seventy men sat down to dinner, among them, several Thirty-Niners, who paid respect to that great event which the old Vet's never forget. The Ladies Aux. looked after the eats (seeing we don't know it) done a good job.

The toasts were few and very short which were given by Comrades Al Wetmore, Austin Neame, W. Greaves, W. Wilkinson and Fred Wolno, after which the boys sat down to do justice to a good meal.

Jimmy Ormston gave several selections on the piano and all joined in singing the songs of 1914-18 and a few of the last war thrown in for good measure. Fred Wolno gave several turns with Hugh Scanlon at the piano. A moving picture show was provided by Timmins Fire Dept. and enjoyed by all, and for which they received a hearty vote of thanks.

We would like to mention some of the high lights, I think the best one for the night was told by the president, but we did think the ladies would not be listening, however one good joke deserves another.

If you really know how Comrade George Starling Sr. lost his hair in the South African war you would have a real good laugh, we would like to give it here, but I'm afraid. We had a good laugh. We hope young George looks the same as Pop when he reaches that age. We never thought Bob Wallace was such a spirited young man, maybe it was the Scotch that was in him.

We would like to mention Les Nicholson and his committee, who did a very good job in the management of the affair. This was no Vimy night where there were no battles re-fought.

I got a problem on my hands this week. The other evening I met an ex-service man, a veteran of the first great war, who incidentally, is not a member of the Branch, but wants to be a member of the Canad'an Legion, so he asks me, why isn't there a Canadian Legion in Timmins.

That question took me aback, because I was under the impression that I belonged to the Canadian Legion, but no, for the past fourteen years I have been a member of the Foreign Legion.

I ask nothing better than to call myself a Canadian now, but foreign, that's tough. I wonder what Rabby Burns would say to that, only, a man's a man for a that. His reason was, why is there so many different races in the Legion. And to call it the Canadian Legion when some fought on the sides of Italy, Belgium, France, England, He meant Scotland, too, when he said England and so on, and should not be included in Canadian Legion. Didn't some of those so called foreigners come to Canada long before the war to settle down, when it came they joined up in the Forces here and fought for Canada. If they are not entitled, who is? Why not their brothers, who did

Crosby and Bergman Appearing At Palace

A deeply-moving and richly humorous exposition of life in a parochial convent school, "The Bells of St. Mary's" stars Bing Crosby and Ingrid Bergman in the picture now playing at the Palace theatre.

Crosby's role is that of Father O'Malley, who takes over the pastorate of St. Mary's after his predecessor has fallen from trying to cope with the feminine domination of the nuns in school affairs.

Miss Bergman has the role of Sister Benedict, who has her own ideas on the subject of child education. The friendly conflict of ideas furnishes some of the most delightful scenes in the picture.

Menace is introduced by a rich but unbelieving capitalist who seeks the condemnation of the shabby old school because he wants it as a parking lot for the grand new building he is erecting next door.

When Father O'Malley and his nuns go to work on him, with simple faith and unbounded optimism as their chief weapons, the menace is dispersed.

Crosby sings several old favorite devotional numbers, including "Adeste Fideles." He also sings one new number, "Aren't You Glad You're You?"

All-Star Cast Seen In Cartier Picture

Thrills, romance and intrigue have been deftly blended in "Weekend at the Waldorf" to bring back one of the year's most attractive movies to the Cartier on Monday and Tuesday.

A glance at the cast is sufficient to show what is meant. There are Ginger Rogers, Lana Turner, Walter Pidgeon, Van Johnson, Edward Arnold, Robert Benchley, Keenan Wynn and Xavier Cugat and his orchestra.

All of these are at their best in an enchanting and clever story of 48 hours at the world's most famous luxury hotel in New York.

Miss Rogers play a glamorous Hollywood star (of all things) who has everything she wants except love. She meets a weary war correspondent, played by Walter Pidgeon, and at the same time Van Johnson cooks up a romance with Lana Turner.

The result is good entertainment.

Cartier Weekender Has Gun-Totin' Hero

In "Both Barrels Blazing," which comes to the Cartier for Friday and Saturday, Charles Starrett, otherwise the Durango Kid, handles himself adroitly as always in this adventure in behalf of law and order.

Starrett leaves Texas at the start of the picture and goes into New Mexico to track down a fortune in stolen gold coins, all dated 1860, which the thief attempts to dispose of by befriending an aged character whom he represents, as having discovered a rich gold claim.

It's around this character that the story builds principal interest, although it's in the shooting, riding and man-to-man battling that the picture profits by contrast.

Some attractive shorts, plus another episode of the "Tiger Woman" serial, rounds out the program.

fight for their own country, but for the same cause, on the same side, and have come to this country since and settled down, and the British Empire Service League of which the Canadian Legion is a Branch bars no one who served in the Allied forces.

Unable to be around, we wish them the best, we are glad to hear that Jim Knell, is improving, likewise Bob Russell and Bill Terrier is the better for his stay in the Toronto General. Ben, of the three Cronies has really improved, as he has regained those lost tons. There are some members, if applying for a beer taster's job, would not get to first base, because they could not tell the difference between the diluted and the undiluted.

They kept calling for more ammunition, but orders are orders, enough said.

We are hoping to have a guest speaker at our next general meeting. Dr. Graham Lane has been approached to speak to the meeting regards cancer and it should be interesting, so we hope Dr. Lane will be open for this meeting, Apr. 24, 8.15 p.m.

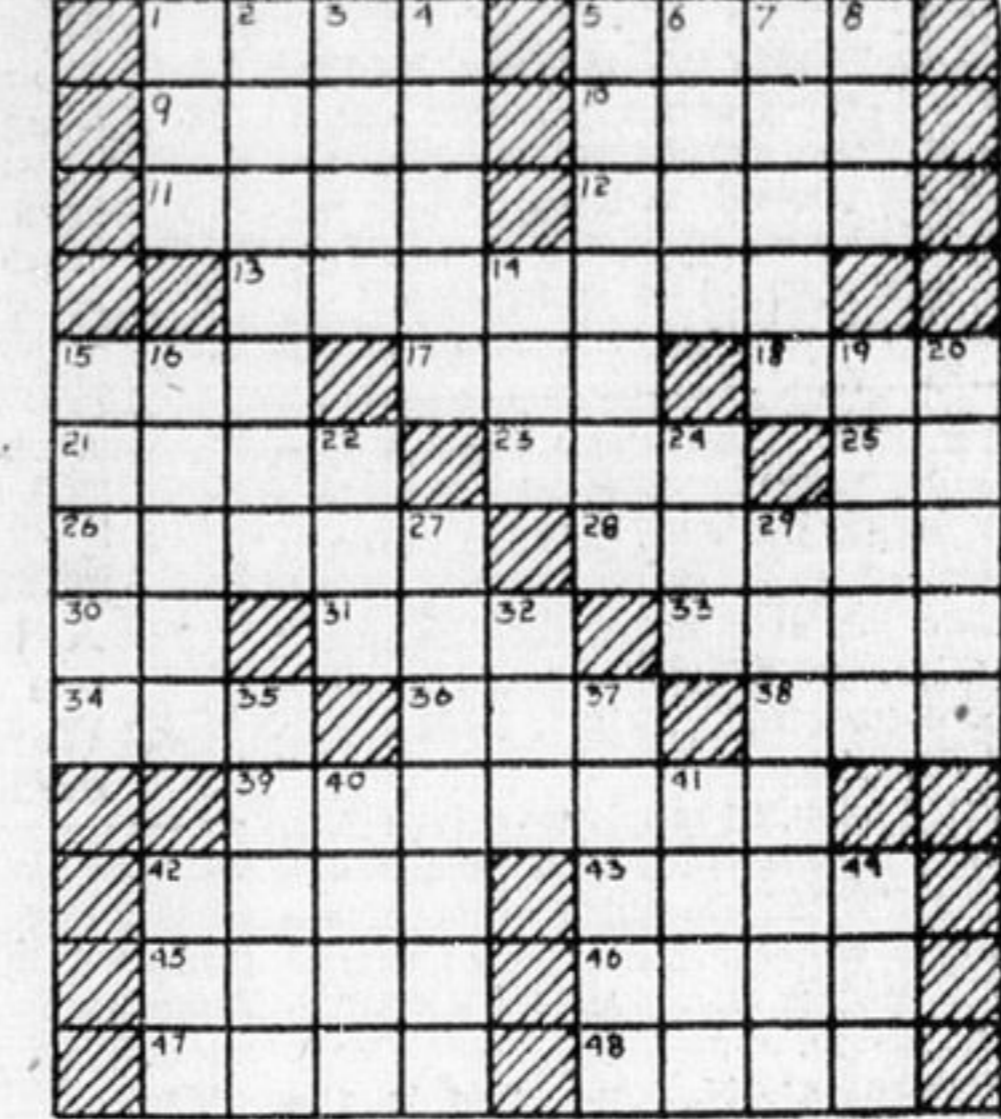

One member says he can't be made a fool of, well if you lope off the last three letters, it is done. Sorry, Pal. All arrangements have been made for the V.E. Dance to be held in the auditorium of the McIntyre Community Building, with Jack Bridges' orchestra in attendance.

Jim and Bert are not what you think. Though the stuff they write, you say, stinks.

But what we do, we think it swell. Just filling in for old Jim Knell. And if at all he reads this column. We wish him the best, yes, from all of 'em.

R. J. Ennis Is Named President of C.I.M.

Leadership In Technical Accomplishments, Humanitarian Work Cited

The president-elect of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, R. J. Ennis, is one of the outstanding figures in Canadian mining. His mining history in Canada is literally that of the McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd., of which he is now vice-president and general manager, but his extra-curricular activities have also had significant repercussions on problems associated with mining the world over.

Richard J. Ennis was born and raised in the great silver-lead-zinc district of Aspen, Colorado, where he became associated with Chas. B. Flynn, who was prominent in mining circles there. In August, 1911, when Flynn was vice-president of McIntyre Mines, he invited Ennis to design, build and operate a 10-stamp amalgamation and concentration mill for the mine in the newly opened Porcupine camp. Production started in May, 1912, and in January of the following year he was appointed General Manager and assumed a leading role in the development of the property.

Immediately following this appointment, Mr. Ennis started the design and construction of a 150-ton cyanide plant, establishing leadership in the modernization of this metallurgical process. It was at this time that the real abilities and the courage of the man were put to the utmost test. McIntyre was in bad straits financially, a strike hit the camp, the company had heavy commitments for plant and for a time it appeared that disaster loomed.

It has been related that Ennis was frequently obliged to hustle the still-warm gold bricks to the bank in order to meet the payroll and other expenses and to prevent a shut-down which might have led to the loss of the property for the shareholders. The mine was young and growing and nobody knew a great deal about ore habits of the new camp. It was touch and go at times, to find ore of a grade that would produce enough money to keep the company's head above water. But Ennis pulled the patient through.

A PERFECT COMBINATION

It is largely due to the faith of J. P. Bickell and R. J. Ennis in the mine and in the camp itself that the company grew to its present stature and importance. There was a period of doubt about Porcupine with some authorities expressing skepticism regarding the future.

The teaming up of Ennis and Bickell in 1915 formed a perfect combination of business and technical ability. Plans for expansion were put into motion

Stationery Firm Is Damaged By Fire

Two Timmins men went to sleep with lighted cigarettes on Apr. 13 and afterward were visited by the local fire vice president of McIntyre Porcupine Mines Ltd.

The humanitarian work of Mr. Ennis are matters of public record. But to his thousands of friends in the Canadian mining industry, his personal qualities, his interest in the young engineer and metallurgist, his concern for the people under his charge, his broad mind and big heart, are of more importance. The honor which accompanied election to the head of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy has been well and truly earned.

Dr. Alan E. Cameron, past president of the Institute, whom Mr. Ennis now succeeds, was born in Ottawa in 1890. He graduated from McGill University in geology in 1913, and again in 1914 with the Master's degree. On returning from the First Great War, he joined the staff of the University of Alberta, which he served for almost twenty years, first as Lecturer and Assistant Professor in Mining, and later as Professor of Metallurgy. In 1926 he received the Doctor of Science degree from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, in recognition of his researches on steel.

During this period in Alberta, Dr. Cameron did a good deal of private field work on coal and oil and made surveys of northern Alberta and the Northwest Territories for the Geological Survey of Canada. In Edmonton he was for some years Secretary of the Research Council of Alberta, which involved a wide variety of technical and advisory duties.

Why Do People Borrow Money?

For many reasons. To pay medical and hospital bills—consolidate overdue bills—for clothing, travel expense, home furnishings, repairs, fuel, money-making opportunities, assist relatives, automobile expense, taxes, etc.

Usually it's better to borrow only when you must. But there are times when it's wise to make a loan—when it's better for all concerned.

Household Finance Corporation is Canada's largest and oldest Small Loans Company, with 36 offices in 32 cities.

You can arrange a loan from $25 up to $1,000 at any one of these offices and have up to 24 months to repay. We've tried to make it simple and convenient for you to borrow at Household. You can arrange your loan by telephone if you prefer.

All you do is name the amount of money you need, and how you want to repay. Usually you can get your cash the same day you apply.

And the cost of your loan will be less at Household than at any other Small Loans Company in your community. We will be more than glad to help you any time we can.
