

Twin Bill Friday At The Palace

The Palace Theatre features a double-bill starting on Friday, "Dangerous Business," a cops-crooks comedy dealing with the hilarious side of homicide, stars Forrest Tucker, Lynn Merrick, Gerald Mohr and others.

Great kids, a wonder-dog, in a delightfully different story that will run away with your heart, add to the appeal of the other half of the bill, "The Return of Rusty."

Ted Donaldson, who appeared in the first "Rusty" film, tops a talented cast that includes John Litel, Mark Dennis and Barbara Woodell.

No boy is an outcast when a faithful dog trots by his side, the plot points out.

Cartier Features Friday Matinee

The Cartier Theatre has revised its program schedule to provide for a special children's matinee on Friday at 4:30 p.m.

The feature attraction for Friday and Saturday is "Flame of the West," one of the season's outstanding westerns.

It stars Johnny Mack Brown in a role which gives him an opportunity to contribute a carefully shaded characterization as a doctor whose philosophy favors "healing, not killing."

Setting in a western town, it is not until he has been repeatedly named as a coward that he finally cuts loose as a whirling crusader on the side of law and order. The homely comedy of Raymond Hatton is a feature of the story, and the leading feminine role is played by Joan Woodbury while Douglas Dumbrille is the town marshal, and Lynne Carver is a local girl. These five are featured at the head of a big cast.

Songs and music are supplied by Pee Wee King and his Golden West Cowboys, radio favorites for many years on the "Grand Old Opry" program.

Disney Film Comes To the Broadway

A picture which should delight the young in heart of all ages is Walt Disney's "Make Mine Music," which starts at the Broadway Theatre on Saturday.

It is a masterpiece of humor and fantasy, a full-length musical feature in technicolor.

Swing fans will get a lift from the fact that some of the music for the film is by Benny Goodman's famous quartette, and others will be pleased to learn that sound contributions are also heard, but not seen, in the film from such famous artists as Nelson Eddy, Dinah Shore, Andy Russell, the Andrews Sisters, the King's Men, Sterling Holloway, and the Pied Pipers.

Jerry Colonna's voice will be heard in "Casey at the Bat," a sequence in the picture. A fairy story, "Peter and the Wolf," and a folk legend, "The Martins and the Coys," are also given amusing treatment.

Two Features At Cartier Tonight

The "House of Horrors," plays at the Cartier for the last time tonight as part of a double bill. One of the famous "Creepers" series, it stars Bill Goodwin, Robert Lowery and Virginia Grey, with Rondo Hatton as the "Creepers."

Godwin portrays a cop trying to solve a series of killings in which the victim's spine is snapped by sheer force. Miss Grey has the role of a newspaper reporter who unknowingly solves the crime.

"The Fall of Berlin," films the other half of the program. Filmed by 32 cameramen of the First Byelorussian Army and nine cameramen of the First Ukrainian Army, the picture details, by use of live action and animated maps, the Russian advance from Stalingrad to Berlin.

Leave Her to Heaven Comes to Cartier

Giving Gene Tierney, Cornel Wilde and Jeanne Crain the most dramatic roles of their respective careers, "Leave Her to Heaven," comes to the Cartier Theatre for Monday and Tuesday.

In the title role of the psychological drama, Gene Tierney combines glamour and emotion as she has never had a chance to do before. She plays a beautiful girl who loves so intensely that she will stop at nothing, even murder, to monopolize the man she loves.

Whitehorse Hotel Offers Low Rates To Gamblers, Clergy

"Rates: One Ounce Per day," -- or at least, so it is announced on the letterhead of the Sour Dough Hotel, 1333 Icicle Avenue, Whitehorse, Yukon Territories.

Other information offered to prospective guests of the Sour Dough, is to the effect that dice, Chuck Luck, Stud Poker and Black Jack Games are run by the management. Special rates are offered for Ministers and Gamblers.

Drunk Driver Gets Ten Days

A charge of unlawfully operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition, heard in police court on Tuesday, brought ten days in jail, suspending of driving license and the impounding of the car to Joe Pelletier.

Police, attracted by a traffic jam on Commercial Ave. on Aug. 27, had found the accused behind the wheel of his car, which was stalled. He started the car, it was stated, backed on to the sidewalk, and stalled again.

"Slightly Drunk," Gets Minimum Fine

"There are different degrees of intoxication," said Dr. J. A. Kinnear, called as a witness in a charge of being intoxicated in a public place, preferred in Police Court on Tuesday against Stanley McDonald.

"He looked as though he had been drinking," the doctor said. "He was, I would say, slightly under the influence of drinking. He answered questions intelligently."

Two Charges Faced By Woman in Court

Two charges, one of drunkenness and the other of having liquor, were preferred against Patricia Laflamme in police court on Tuesday. She paid $10 and costs on each charge.

Police in a patrol car had found her in an intoxicated condition at 10 Cedar St. South on Aug. 20, it was stated, and on Aug. 31, they acted on a complaint from 84 Maple St. South and found her crouched in the garden with an overnight club bag. Examination of the bag at the police station revealed a "mickey," it was stated.

Two Charges Faced By Woman in Court

The police did not ask me where I was going," was the defence to the statement that she could not explain her actions. "I was sick and had some wine," she stated to the charge that she was drunk.

If exercise really removes fat, how come so many women have double chins?

A doctor had been called to examine him and he had been found unfit to drive. No damage had been done.

More Youth Work Facilities Needed To Cut Delinquency

Recreational facilities for the young in Canada are vastly below minimum requirements, it was stated recently by Lt. Col. J. Merritt, head of the Salvation Army Property Department for the Canadian Territory.

"The outstanding need of The Salvation Army today is for more buildings and equipment for programs aimed at the reduction of juvenile delinquency," said Col. Merritt. "Though much work among children is carried on by The Salvation Army in the form of Scouts, Guides, Boys' Bands and other group work, there is a tremendous demand for more halls which have gymnasiums and other indoor recreational features and more summer outing opportunities."

"All the recreational facilities in existence today within and outside of The Salvation Army, fall far short of what should be available to provide supervised play and hobby activities," he declared. "Swarms of idle young folk roam the street, too often forming into gangs which follow the path to criminality."

"The best place to attack adult criminality is at the source -- juvenile idleness leading to a search for amusement that too often becomes lawless."

"Working as it does chiefly among the unchurched of the cities and rural areas, The Salvation Army daily sees the great need for the extension of evangelical work, the primary activity of The Army, to bring about the restoration to useful life of the strayed. Annually The Salvation Army carries its message of redemption to scores of thousands in Canada."

In its social service field, The Salvation Army operates across the Dominion 92 institutions to help people. Maintenance costs, above income, are met through public subscription.

It is hoped that this year's Home Front Appeal for $2,000,000, to be inaugurated Sunday, September 15, will bring in funds to an amount permitting some extension of facilities.

Collision Case Aired in Court

Operating a car "without due care and attention" cost Rene LeLorne $10 and costs in police court on Tuesday. After evidence had been given to the effect he had backed out on to Mountjoy St. and into the approaching car of Chas. Ramsay.

He had looked down the street, but had not seen the other car coming, the accused stated. The police said Mr. Ramsay had evidently done all possible to avoid the accident.

Panic-Buying Causes Shortages

According to a recent statement by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board panic-buying has caused practically every shortage we have had in Canada during recent months.

As soon as the word "shortage" is mentioned people all over the country rush to their nearest store and buy much more than they require for their actual needs.

Boys Must Pay For False Alarm

In Juvenile Court, two young offenders were charged with turning in a false alarm of fire. They were caught in the act. Twelve firemen responded to the call and the resultant cost to taxpayers was $26.50.

The two boys were reprimanded by Magistrate S. Atkinson and told of the serious nature of their experiment. When the Magistrate learned the lads were earning a little by selling papers, he ordered them to make restitution. They are to repay parents who paid the $26.50 which the boys' prank cost.

Chief McInnis would like all parents to note this, and to read the riot act to any of their own youngsters who feel the urge to see what would happen if they turned in an alarm from a box.

Two men paid fines for having beer, two paid heavier fines for speeding, and one man was ordered to pay $204 within ten days, on a charge of non-support, and a new order was made out.
