

"Canyon Passage" Shown At Broadway

One of the most interesting sets ever needed by a motion picture company was built to represent the town of Jacksonville, Oregon, during the boom days of 1856, just prior to the famous Rogue Indian Rebellion of that year.

The picturesque set was required for "Canyon Passage" a technicolor film which starts at the Broadway on Saturday.

Starring in the picture are Brian Donlevy, Susan Hayward, Andy Devine and Dana Andrews. Appearing for the first time in the films is Andy Devine's young son, Tad.

The film is a stirring, action-packed film of the old days of the west, and is backed by an expert cast and amazingly beautiful color reproduction.

Rita Hayworth In "Gilda" At Cartier

When a movie role comes along that is just about made to order for a screen star's personality, the resulting film is sure to be a hit. Visible evidence of this can be found at the CARTIER Theatre on Monday and Tuesday where lovely Rita Hayworth opens on Monday as the glamorous, bewitching "Gilda" in Columbia Pictures' thrilling romantic drama, with Glenn Ford, George Macready, Joseph Calleia and Steven Geray.

There never was a woman like Gilda, and Miss Hayworth really goes to town in her first important dramatic role. She sings and dances, too. Stunningly groomed, away to throbbing Latin rhythms and softly rendering a torchy tune. Rita brings down the house.

The taut and unusual love story starts when fough and bitter Johnny Farrell (Glenn Ford), brawling along a South American waterfront, is adopted by the suave Ballin Mundson (George Macready), sadistic owner of a gambling casino.

Johnny, tight-lipped about his past, trying hard to forget a love which haunts him, rises to become Mundson's trusted lieutenant and best friend. But, when Mundson returns from a trip with a bride, Gilda (Rita Hayworth), the air is swept with tension as Johnny sees the woman in his life.

"Bewitchy" is the word for Gilda, whose life can best be summed up in her own words — "I do what I please, when I please". Before the score is settled, boys will get more than their share of exciting entertainment.

Glenn Ford is definitely ticketed for stardom as a result of his fine performance, while George Macready, Joseph Calleia and Steven Geray sparkle in the important featured roles.

All Organizations Give Dance Prizes, Defense Counsel Tells Court

Oliver Carson, who gave away a $50 bill as a prize at a dance sponsored by his Windsor Cab firm, paid another $50 — plus costs — for the privilege in police court on Tuesday, despite the vigorous arguments of Defence Counsel S. C. Platus.

husband to testify that it was his glass, and that it was he who drank it. The evidence was in contradiction to that given by the police, but Magistrate Atkinson gave her the benefit of the doubt.

"We'll let you go this time, but if they catch you again, look out," he warned her.

Court Frowns On Florida Water As Beverage

Ed. Journeau, of 41 Wilson Ave. (upstairs) paid $10 and costs in police court on Tuesday following a charge laid by police who found a part bottle of wine in a wood pile in a shed adjoining his residence. Police testified that the door of the shed was locked when they arrived to search the place, and that the wine had been found in a pile of slabs which had not been there previously.

Mr. Journeau claimed the wine had been left there on a previous search of the premises, and produced a witness who claimed he had piled wood in the shed and that the door was unlocked.

In the course of the hearing, Mr. Journeau took a bottle of Florida water from his pocket to illustrate a point.

"Tell him not to wave that Florida water around too much," instructed Magistrate Atkinson. "If he drinks it, it is just as bad as wine."

"This is quite important, not only in this case, but to a lot of charitable organizations," declared Mr. Platus, citing a number of organizations who had recently given prizes in somewhat similar circumstances.

"There is not an organization which does not have dances and give prizes," Mr. Platus claimed. "You will be setting up a precedent."

"Nobody took much notice of such things in charitable cases during the war years," Magistrate Atkinson commented. "But this man did it to boost his own business."

Mr. Platus pointed out that there must be "consideration, a prize, and a chance," to constitute a lottery, and claimed no consideration was asked other than the normal rate of taxi fares.

"I would like to point out to the public that they cannot get away with small fines in such cases," S. A. Caribick, representing the Crown, stated. "This is a good form of advertising, and many would be glad to pay a small fine for it."

Dismissal of the charge was refused. The defendant was fined $50 and costs.

Dismiss Charge Of Illegal Drinking

Yvonne Richard, 407 Birch St. S., won acquittal on a charge of drinking a glass of wine when she brought her ing role as the heroine of "Three Wise Fools."

This time she plays a little Irish tom with a firm belief in pixies and the enchantment they can bring into your life. How she manages to convert three hard-bitten and cynical bachelors to her belief in the leprechaun makes her a fresh and constantly diverting comedy.

Lionel Barrymore, Lewis Stone and Edward Arnold play the respective doctor, judge and banker whose bleak household is upset by the arrival from Ireland of little Sheila O'Monahan, granddaughter of a girl whom all three once loved. While the idea of this pert little miss in their midst is at first repugnant to the smug trio, they are finally won around by the first bit of affection they have experienced in years.

A scheme to deprive Sheila of her property, including an oak tree in which dwell the little pixies of the superstitious girl's imagination, almost upsets the apple cart of their placid existence, but the "three wise fools" are brought to see the light before the final fadeout and little Sheila is able to preside over a happy reunion.

Palace Film Boasts Three Big Stars

With what skill an international fugitive is tracked down by a brilliant detective is one of the many elements in the unique drama "The Stranger," which comes Sunday midnight to the Palace theatre.

The picture stars Edward G. Robinson, Loretta Young and Orson Welles.

In a sleepy little Connecticut village the fugitive feels himself well hidden as a quiet professor of history at a boys' school. Only one man knows the secret of his past; when that man appears, the villain, unaware that the witness has been followed assiduously by a nemesis, kills him. Feeling quite safe now, the professor goes through with his marriage to a local deb, the daughter of a Supreme Court Justice.

Inexorably the drama builds, as the human equation threatens to betray the teacher. Because the fugitive has destroyed all evidence linking him to criminal activities, the detective knows that it will be essential to pin the local murder on his quarry. Cleverly playing on the emotions of the killer's devoted bride, the detective achieves his end in a smash climax which establishes a new high for suspenseful melodrama.

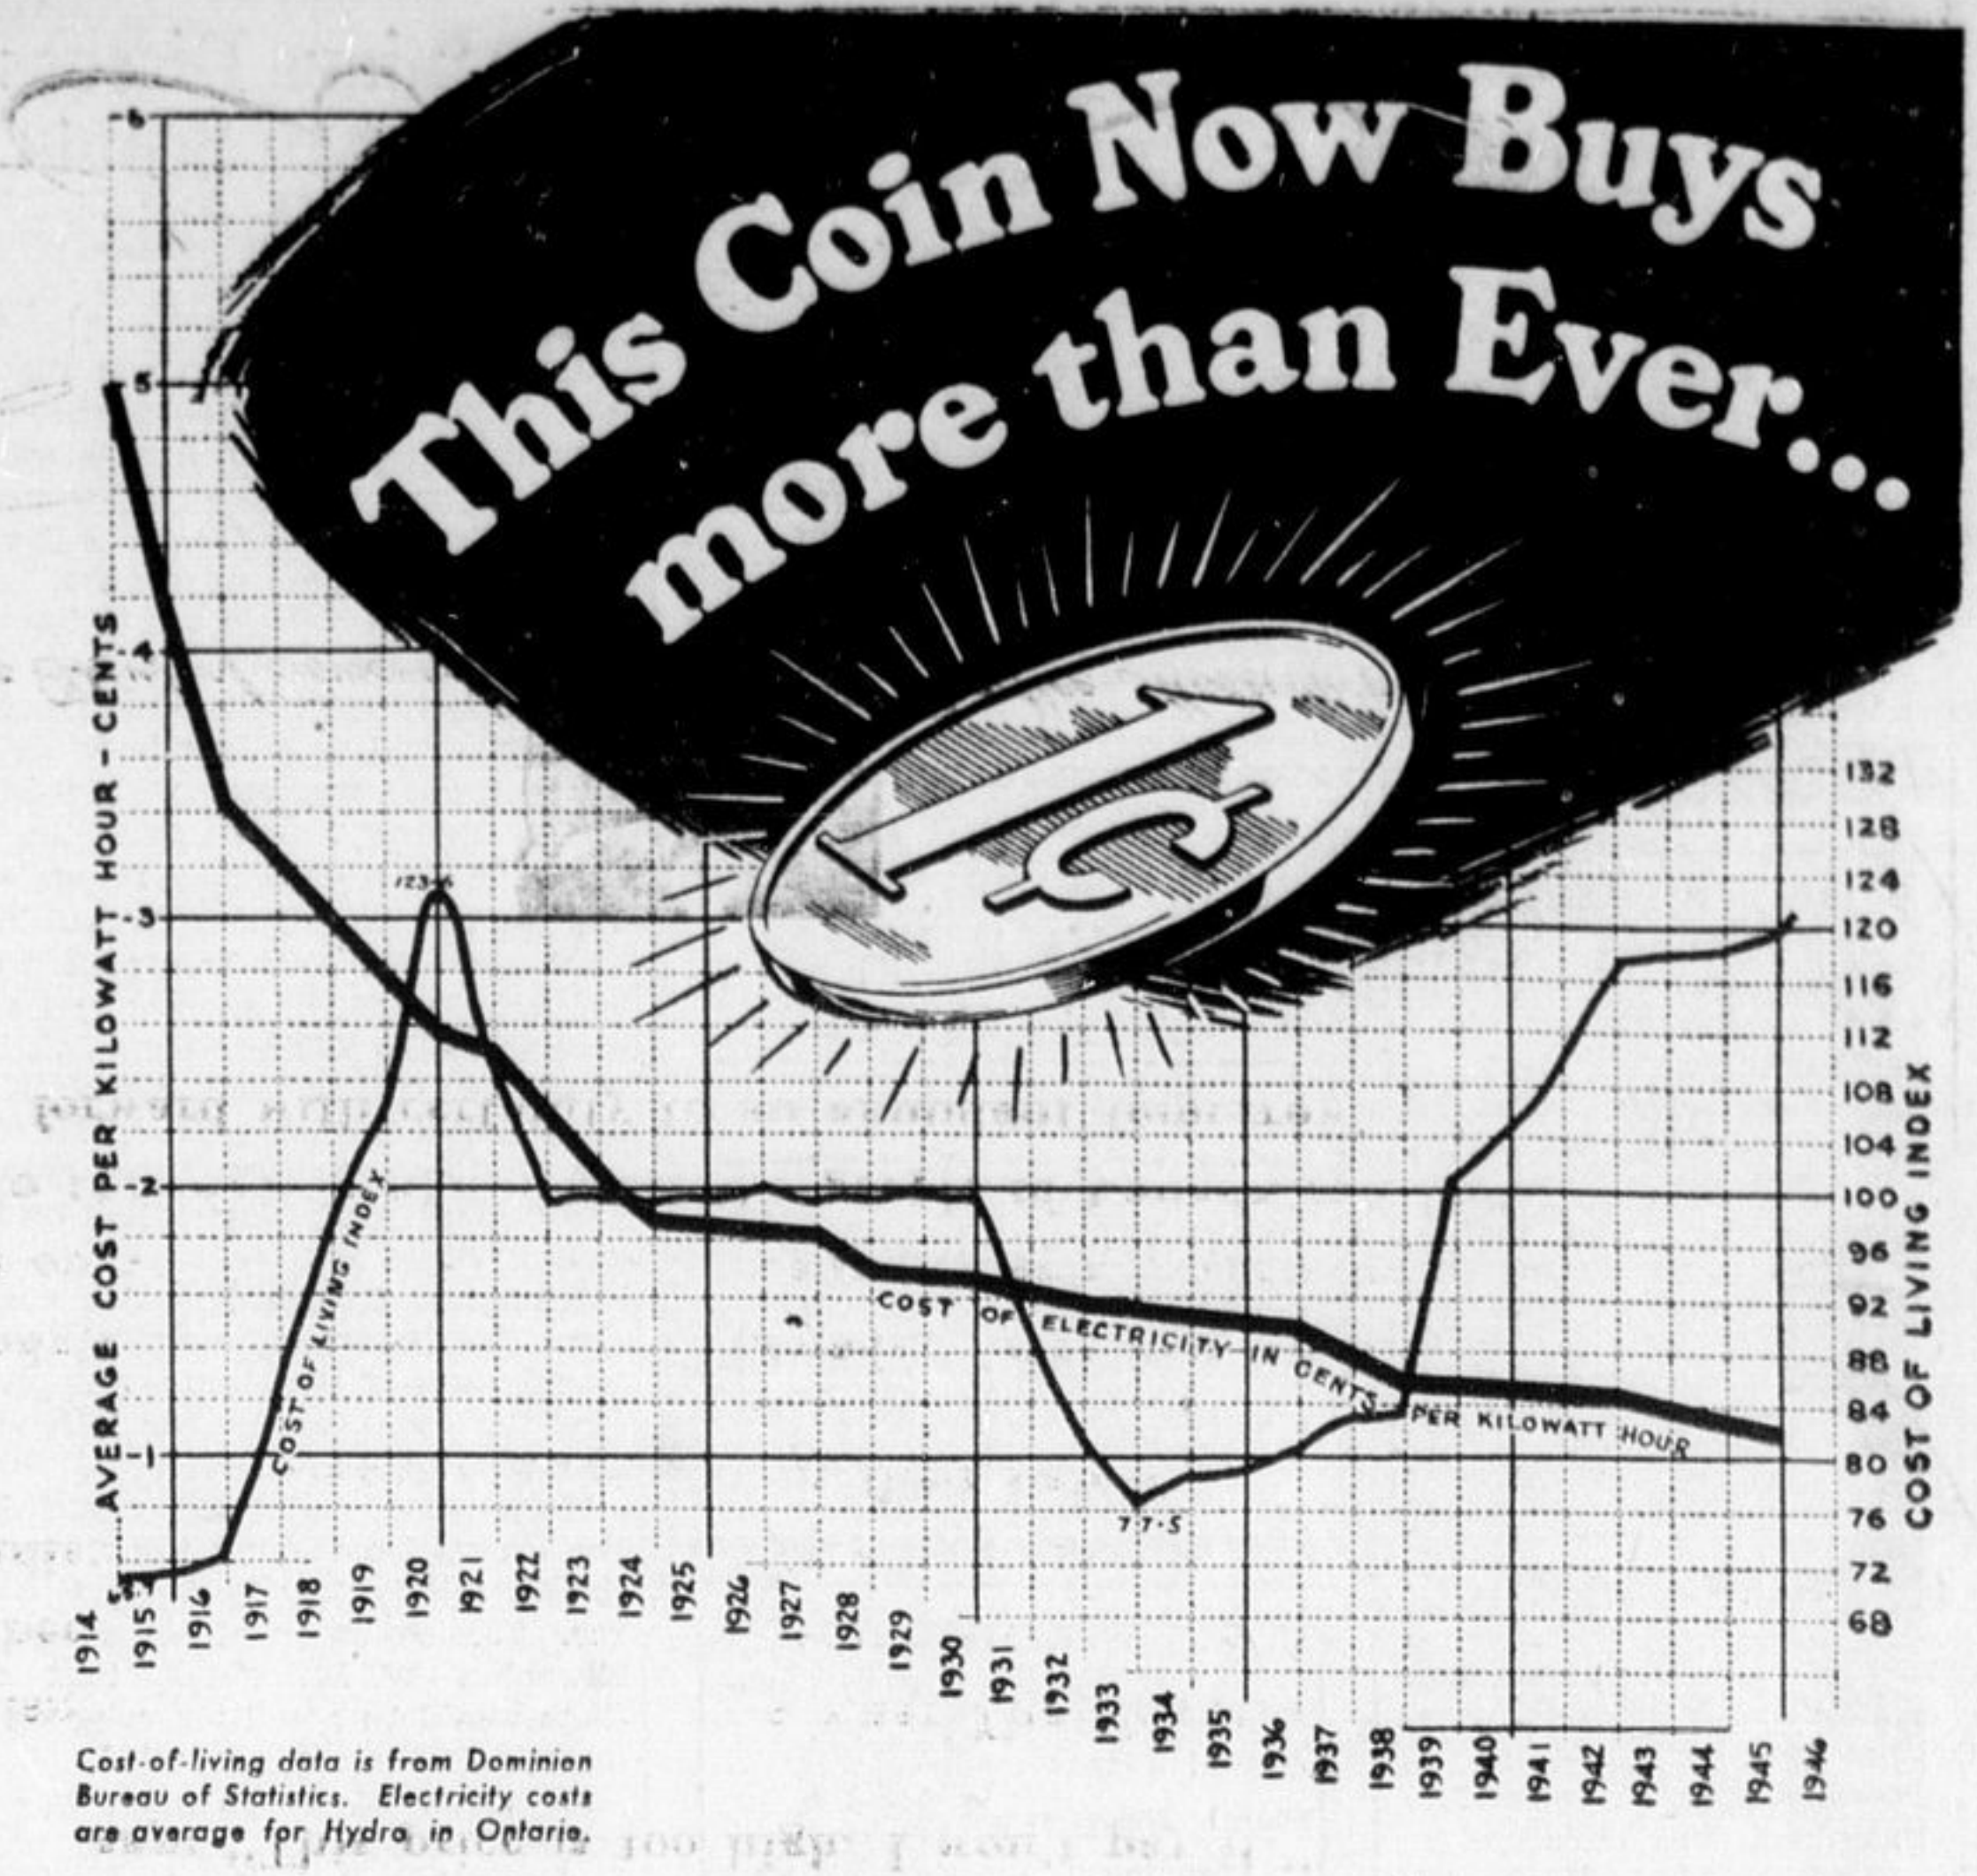

Gets Six Months For Having Gold

Possession of gold ore to the value of $233.66, alleged to have been stolen from the Delnite mine some three months ago, brought a sentence of six months with hard labor, to Frank Zarosky, 22, following evidence heard in police court on Tuesday.

The accused had been discharged from the army as medically unfit, the defence stated.

Prices! Have they got you worried? Well, here is one price to feel good about. You can buy more Hydro energy for one cent today than at any time in history!

Compared with the dips and peaks of general living costs, the cost of Hydro service to Ontario consumers has come down constantly since 1914 . . . even dropping during war years. Today one cent buys about twice as much as in 1923 . . . almost five times as much as in 1914.

Think of the work that one cent's worth of electricity can do today, in an average Ontario home. It will give electric refrigeration for 24 hours . . . cook a full meal for two people on an electric range . . . operate a washing machine for two hours, an electric ironer for half an hour, a hand iron for an hour . . . light a 100-watt lamp for 10 hours, or run an average radio all day.

Few people in the world have electricity available to them at such low cost as prevails in Ontario and as a result, electricity is extensively used. Present demands tax supply facilities to capacity since Hydro construction and expansion were restricted by wartime necessity. Present shortage of materials and equipment makes it impossible to rapidly carry out expansion already planned. Until these conditions are relieved, use this economical servant wisely.

Who's lucky?

Next time you see a neighbor, or one of the fellows who works with you on your job, tell yourself: "He's a mighty lucky man—and so am I."

We all are, here in Canada. Yet "lucky" isn't quite the word for a people who have the common sense and courage to look at the high prices of many unessential things and say: "This price is too high. I won't pay it."

No, it isn't luck. It's character. It's what The House of Seagram has been proud to extol as a Canadian virtue—the ability of the Canadian people to be moderate in all things—in their thinking, in their actions and in their habits.

Nobody's just "lucky" here in Canada; we've just all helped to make ourselves that way. And because today's moderation is the key to tomorrow's abundance, the people of Canada can look forward with certainty to an abundant tomorrow.

Men who Think of Tomorrow Practice Moderation Today!
