

JUST Between OURSELVES

By Bernice Kaye

The Riverside Pavilion appears to be getting more popular all the time, particularly since the renovation of the dance hall. The main dance floor has been extended with a similar smooth hardwood floor in the new section, which is very conducive to pleasant dancing. Henry Kelneck's orchestra reigns supreme at the far end of the floor, with a decorative background of stars and silver circles. The new additions of large Chinese covering light bulbs creates a very romantic setting for the waltz melodies in which Henry specializes.

A dance floor has been laid in the basement, with tables surrounding it in cabaret style.

Always interested in things of beauty, we noticed the other day a ring that Mrs. M. J. Kelly, 2 Sixth Ave., was wearing.

Mrs. Kelly places a great deal of sentimental value in the beautiful ring as it belonged to her mother, and the association keeps her memory alive to her.

The ring bears three immense, perfectly matched, flawless diamonds, in a half-Tiffany setting. Facing each side of the setting are three tapering, smaller diamonds, which in comparison to the three main stones are very inconspicuous indeed.

We learned that Mrs. Kelly's mother was presented with one of the diamonds on her fifth wedding anniversary, the second on her tenth and the third on her fifteenth anniversary.

There are so many songs about smiles, and the very thought of them puts a brighter aspect on the day.

It's a fact, though, that regardless of your inner feelings, you can cheer yourself up by adopting a pleasant expression. When things go wrong and they often do, just change your train of thought; forget about your troubles, and smile.

We've heard of one elderly gentleman whose policy, or philosophy, through life has been this: "I have my personal problems, my "bad" days, my own worries. So has everyone else. Why should I burden my acquaintances, and particularly my wife and family with my morbid thoughts? If I must look unpleasant, I shall retire to my room and sulk in solitude." If we all adopted this adult view on life what a pleasant world this would be. Let us all try it.

The Timmins Branch of the Life Underwriters Association is proud of one of its members, Arnold Beauchamp, of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada, for he recently was named with the ten top producers of his company.

Mr. Beauchamp's standing was eighth, which is particularly commendable as he has only been with his company for two years. The other leading producers are more experienced men in the field and are from much larger cities than Timmins.

$500,000 was the large amount of business that Mr. Beauchamp has written in the past year. He has still higher hopes for the year 1947, and we wish him every success in the life underwriting business.

A well governed appetite is a great part of liberty. The youth who follows his appetites too soon seizes the cup before it has received its been ingredients, and by anticipating his pleasures, robs the remaining parts of life of their share, so that his eagerness only produces a manhood of imbecility and an age of pain.

CABOGI'S ENJOY SKIT OF NORTH

The Timmins Cabogi Club held its regular bimonthly meeting in the basement of the Church of the Nativity on Sunday evening. In the absence of spiritual director Father J. Callaghan, president Joe Reszel opened the meeting. Secretary Rita Prest read the minutes of the last general and executive meetings, and treasurer Jean Sweet gave a financial report.

Lillie Morris, of the special events committee, reported to the members proposed plans for a sleigh ride to be held on Friday, Jan. 24. The club accepted the arrangements, which included a three-hour sleigh ride, lunch and dancing.

A social evening is planned for Tues., Feb. 4, and another sleigh ride will be held before Lent, probably on Feb. 17.

Alice Giovenelli reported on the proposed organization of a club orchestra. Arrangements will be completed in the near future.

Mervin Villemaire, editor of the Cabogi publication, "Cabogi Outlook", mentioned to the members that in future the magazine would be published for the first meeting in the month, so that it could be sold at both meetings.

The business meeting was adjourned and Charlotte Richards' group presented a most entertaining skit entitled "Gun Shot Wedding", written by Don McMaster.

The setting of the play was in a far northern country, the land of big fur caps and heavy boots. Following the suggestion in the title, a marriage was arranged between shy, shrinking violet Petroschka Petroski (Ronald Morris), with his masculine voice, and (un)willing groom Yoseph (Theresa Killen).

Charlotte Richards capably handled the part of the domineering father, Ivan Petroski, a titled gentleman of the state, No. 3 for collective farms No. 516B. Her, or his, uniform was very impressive, of handsome dark blue serge, with scores of dangling medals, a visored cap and all.

The audience spontaneously showed its appreciation of the antics of the actors with bursts of laughter and applause.

Riotous master of ceremonies was Donald Lalonde. Between acts he sang a commercial on a humorous theme, advertising some obscure beverage, with the music of the "Russian Boat Song".

WINTER WEAR — The ideal outfit to wear under a fur coat is this two-piece spice colored gabardine dress modeled by Joan Tompkins who is a member of the cast of NBC's "David Harum" cast. The nice thing about this dress is that it has been treated with a Monsanto Chemical called Resloom, which makes cool fabrics washable and muss-resistant.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an afternoon dress of delicately shaded blue with a wide belt of shimmering sequins which formed a deep diamond shaped design in the front. Her accessories were black and a lovely corsage of talisman roses and freesia completed the ensemble.
