IF NOBODY CARED

If nobody smiled and nobody cared
And nobody helped us along,
If each every minute just lived to himself
And all good things went to the strong;

If nobody cared just a little for you
And nobody cared about me,
As we travel along life's journey alone
What a dreary old world it would be.

Life is sweet just because of the friends we have
And the things which in common we share,
And we want to live on not because of ourselves
But because of the people who care;

It's the doing and giving for somebody else
On all that life's pleasure depends;
And the joy of this life, when you sum it all up
Is found in the making of friends.

From all accounts McIntyre Field Day was a huge success with more than 5000 persons attending the many events which included baseball, kiddie's races, plugging-casting, shooting and football.

In the park was found everything for the entire family's comfort and enjoyment. First mention, of course, is the merry-go-round to warm the youngster's happy little hearts . . . and my how those boys and girls could ride those little horses . . . in fact they could compete any day now with Sir Galahad.

In the evening people gathered en masse to attend the skating exhibition and dance session. Highlighted by talented Barbara Ann Scott, World's Figure Skating Champion and talented and lovely dark haired Yvonne Sherman, United States Junior Ladies Champion and Senior Pairs Champion and who will compete against Barbara Ann Scott in the forthcoming Olympics, proved to be one of the most outstanding events of the day.

Among the brilliant performers who gave exhibitions were Elaine Richards, Oshawa, Ontario, Bernard Youtlen, Timmins, Ontario, Ellie Sonneman, New York, N.Y. Ronnie Kinney, Calgary, Alberta, Diane Williams, Calgary Alberta, Gordon Paul, Pamour Mines, Don Gilchrist and a sextette by Olga Bernyk, Mildred Verbik, Erica Bitchelor, Velma Popoveh, Alice Scullion all of Schumacher and Helen Rhea Channen of Timmins and Alex Fulton and Olga Bernyk in a pairs number in addition to members of the Skating Club who took part in the dance session.

The day didn't end there, however. There was round and square dancing in the Auditorium and the Gym with Eddie Morandin and his orchestra for the 'swing and sway' and Rone Jones and his orchestra for the "hoop down".

One of the main attractions of the entire program and a contributing factor in the huge success of the affair was the music of the McIntyre Band, which played during the day the early evening and then played for the skating session. The band is, and has been under the capable direction of Lieut J. W. S. Lomas for a considerable number of years. Lieut Lomas, regarded by some of the world's most famous band leaders as one of the truly great bandmasters, also played in the famed Sousa Band that thrilled an entire continent.

Congratulations and best wishes for a long and happily married life are extended to Vivian Porco and Cecil Crocco who will become Mr. and Mrs. in a pretty ceremony on Saturday morning. The wedding will take place in the Church of the Sacred Heart and Father Louis Fontana will officiate.

Congratulations are also extended to Jean Grimaldi who will become the bride of Rudolph Siola on Sunday. The marriage will take place in the Church of the Sacred Heart with Father Fontana officiating.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hornby who celebrated the occasion of their 30th wedding anniversary yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Hornby were married in St. Matthew's Church at Rugby, England. They came to the Porcupine in 1920 where they have made a host of friends and are active in church and social affairs of the town.

Featuring Joe Slobodian as guest artist, the McIntyre Band under the direction of Lieut J. W. S. Lomas will present another in a series of Summer concerts on Sunday evening. Mr. Slobodian will play coronet solos from "Songs of the Hudson" and the band will play excerpts from the "Student Prince". The concert will be held out of doors in front of the McIntyre Community Building.

A bit of 1916 was unearthed here the day before yesterday with the finding of an old Ottawa Journal. In demolishing an old time building on Cedar street, a workman found the newspaper wedged in between the boards, it was water marked and yellow with age, nevertheless readable. At that time the paper cost one cent per copy. It told of current shortages. Also of the Allies advance into Germany. Of an Italian Marshall being highly lauded by King George V. The advertisements . . . well there were ties, best to be had at 4 for $1.00. High top boots with spool heels and pointed toes for $1.98 and ladies' scarves that are now so scanty for the price of 27 cents a pair. My how times do change.

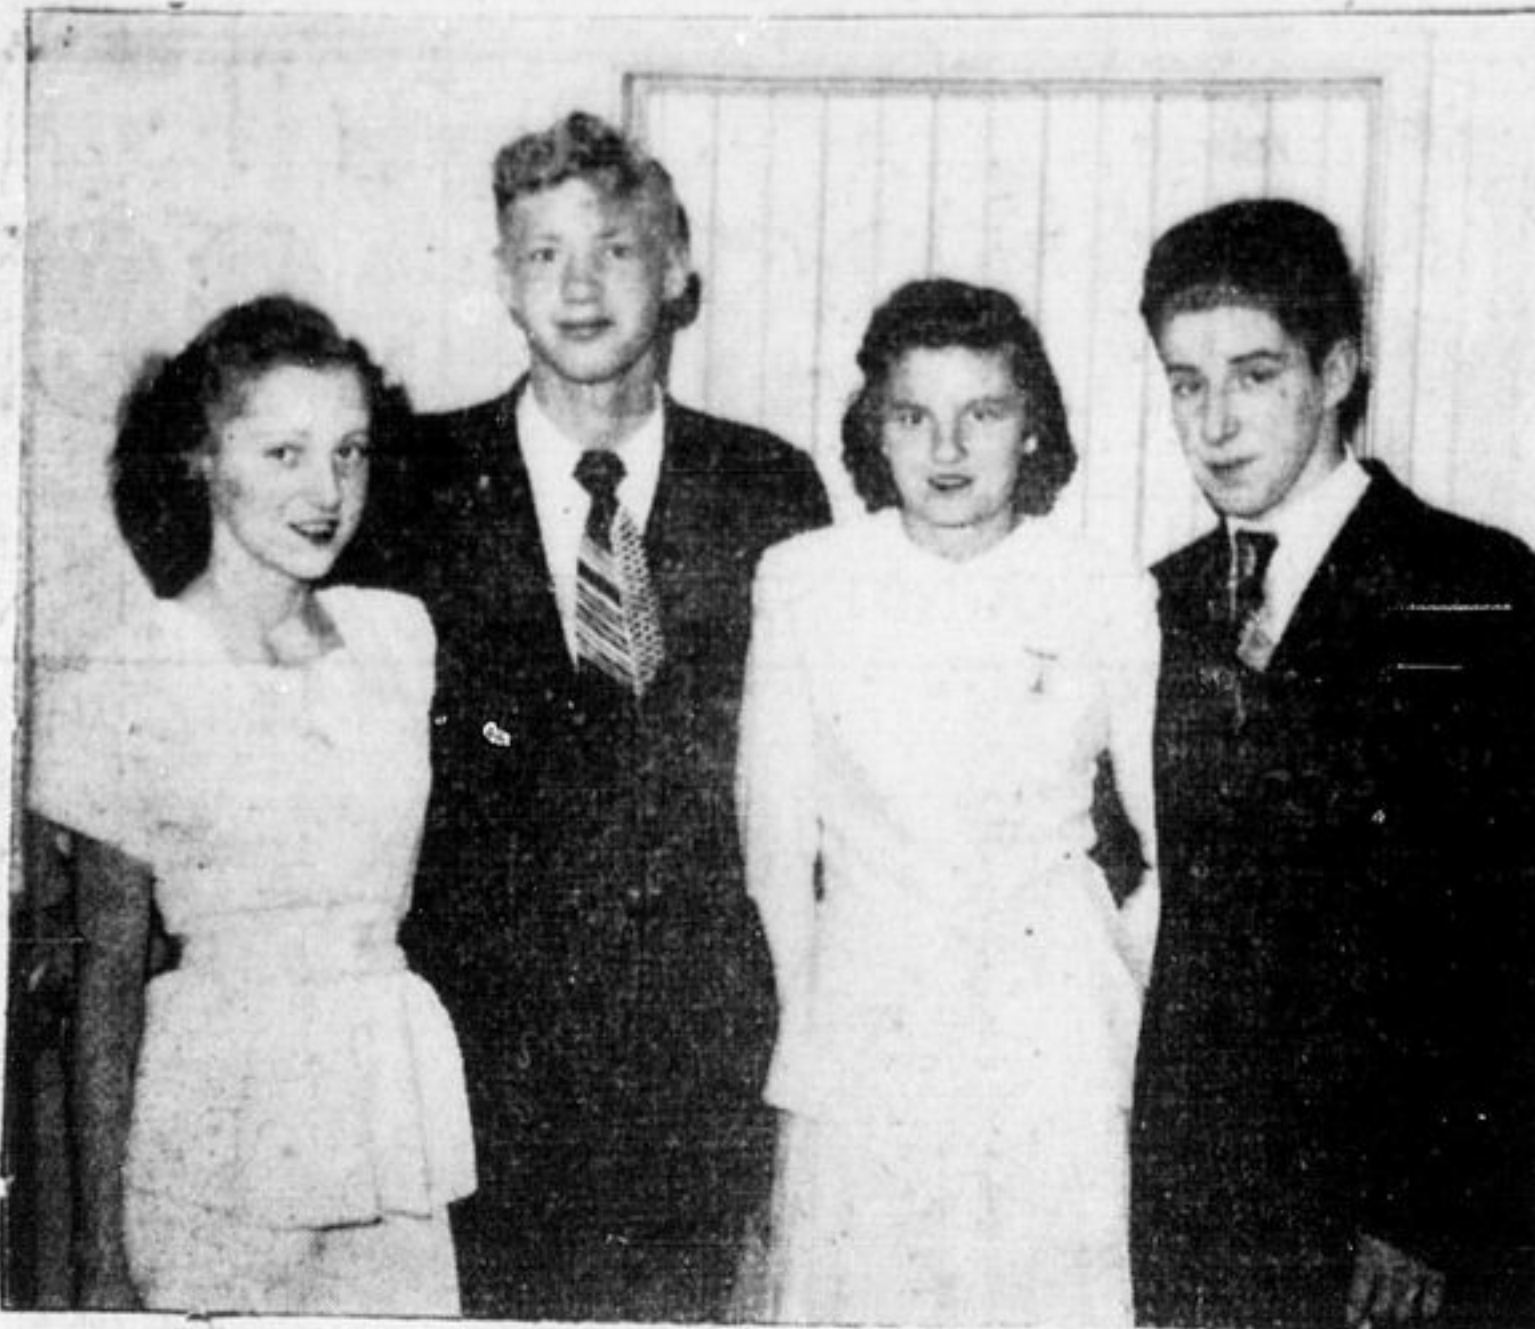

The current heat wave that seems to be getting everyone down has accomplished more than that. It fried an egg on the steps of the McIntyre Community Building Tuesday afternoon. Several of the younger skaters wondered if it could be done, put the idea into motion and were as pleased as all get out with the efforts of old man Sol. Aftermath of the episode however brought howls of rage from the lads and lassies, for one of the men in hosing the pavement all unknowingly, of course, hosed the fried egg and washed it away with the momentum of the water. Wouldn't be surprised though if the youngsters didn't decide on another frying adventure if this heat wave keeps up.

Sheldon Galbraith, of California, trainer of Barbara Ann Scott for the 1948 Olympics will headline this evenings skating exhibition and dance session at McIntyre Arena. Others who will take part in the splendid program will be Kathleen Hill of Schumacher, Florence Newcomb of Boston, Evelyn Robson, Oshawa, Ontario, Irene Keeley, Kirkland Lake and Gloria Warren, New York, N.Y.

So much has been written recently about Princess Elizabeth and her forthcoming marriage to Lieut. Phillip Mountbatten and the Miss Sophie care, as a rule, for their lives to be planned to an unalterable after thought, that it is hard to believe that there is a girl in the most powerful throne in the world that we wondered if her life is as an individual, wouldn't bring to light many interesting and Mr. and Mrs. factors, and we weren't far wrong. It does. And we hope turned after home of our future Queen proves as humanly interesting to you for the last set to us.

Miss Sophie well known fact and one beyond dispute is that young women care, as a rule, for their lives to be planned to an unalterable after thought, that it is hard to believe that there is a girl in the most powerful throne in the world that we wondered if her life is as an individual, wouldn't bring to light many interesting and Mr. and Mrs. factors, and we weren't far wrong. It does. And we hope turned after home of our future Queen proves as humanly interesting to you for the last set to us.

Bucovetsky's Staff Hold Weiner Roast

The Summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Centner on the banks of the Mattagami River was the scene of a jolly gathering during the weekend when members of staff of Bucovetsky's Stores held a jolly weiner roast. A most enjoyable evening was spent in swimming, beach dancing and singing in addition to roasting weiners over glowing coals. Among the merry-makers were Noella Bouchard, Mike Zarrisky, Meyer Bucovetsky, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Buck, Dolly Peel, Gordon Stickland, Elsie Westine, Garry Schut, Yvette Caron, Roy Hunt, Lorna Scheratti, Franca's Morin, Cliff Cornell, Geraldine Leblanc, Denis Brodeur, Hazel Sullivan, Bob Wiggins, Hazel McGee, Jean Stenberg, Helen Rochefort, Ted Vezina, Lucille Clement, Rolly Richer, Gertrude Cuddihy, Dennis O'Sullivan, Carmel Del Guidice, Bud Pierce, Shirley Stevens, Jules Fillion, Tanya Bozak, Armees Joki, Therese Charbonneau, Gaston Pilon, Gertrude Spooner, Roger Rochefort, Gerorgette Garant, Onil Filidon, Frank Brown, Lucy Hamelin, Gerry Brozeau, Lillian Spooner, Yval Guilmette, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Phil lavardiere, Marcella Hediccan, Reuben Peterson and Gerry Mackay.

She isn't quite, but Elizabeth May Alexandria Windsor, future ruler of Great Britain, has, during her twenty-one years, made it clear that she can kick as heartily as any of her less socially exalted sisters. When they told her during the war that she would not be permitted to join any of the women's Services, a hard glint came into her eye and she set out to break down that idea. It took her a year. But she did it, and joined the A.T.S. This was a major victory; her father had led the opposition.

Elizabeth is strong-willed, direct in speech and thought and conscious of the difficult and responsible job she inherits. She has a library of her own in Buckingham Palace. Her working desk gives one a fair clue to her character. The desk, made of mahogany, is a big flat-topped affair. It is flanked by several small tables that feature "In and Out" trays, London guides and telephone books grace these. All her correspondence is neatly clipped and held together with steel holders. There is even a touch of primness about the way her notepaper is arranged.

On her shelves, repose the books of the best French authors, few are modern. Elizabeth reads and speaks French very well. German less fluently. She loves the theatre, frequently goes to late suppers after the show, then its usually to the Mirabelle or Ciro's. She loves dancing and is rated better than average. She loves horse-racing and likes a bet — especially on one of the King's horses.

Since the official announcement of her engagement, she has been preparing to move out of her quarters at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle. She may take up residence in Clarence House in St. James's Palace and use it as her town house and Sunninghill Park near Windsor, as her country home.

Her husband-to-be has already found out she is very "correct" about clothes and is hardly the fashion-plate that the Duchess of Kent was until her widowhood. Her taste in colors run to blues and greens. She wears little jewellery by day — usually three rows of pearls and a watch which must be one of the smallest in the world. In the evening she wears little more jewellery than earrings and a bracelet.

Her husband will also learn that she likes knitting but not sewing. That a boiled egg at breakfast will be turned down flat. The same with ice cream, she just doesn't like it.

She is tallish for a woman (5 ft. 6 1/2 in.) Has a very good carriage and a splendid figure. Her hair is curly and sweeps back from a broad brow. It is a pleasant chestnut color. Her eyes are blue. Her complexion is the English cream and roses tradition. Her mouth is rather wide, but her excellent teeth offsets this fault. Her hands are medium size, tapering and with only a hint of light polish on the nails. She rarely gestures but has the odd habit of holding her left thumb in the palm of her hand when speaking.

And if her husband does such conventional British things as fishing, duck hunting or shooting he is unlikely to find Elizabeth over-keen on them.
