Geese Killed

Mr. O. P. E. Wilf of Hooker Creek minus eight Christmas dinners and possibly more. He forgot to shut his geese in and during the night either a big dog or a wolf got at them and devoured eight. Two others escaped and were found injured some distance away. The footprints in the newly fallen snow revealed they were too big for a fox, as was the first thought, as they are plentiful in that vicinity. It is doubtful whether the remaining two will survive the injuries they received. The sad part of it is, they were all ordered for the holiday season.
