WAVES

Waves go over the water
In rhythmic rows of hills and hollows,
Scalloped and curve and crested form
While a fair wind follows.

Waves go over the wheatfield
In airy gusts, the gold heads swaying,
Dipping, bowing to unseen hands,
Of the light breeze playing.

Waves go over the sand-dune,
Stealthily creeping, slyly shifting;
Grasses droop at the soft advance
Of this endless sifting.

Waves are caught in the snowbank,
Meshed immobile, their frozen motion
A delicate drift of curves and curls,
On a still, white ocean.

WITH MARBLES COME SPRING They always say it is a sure sign of spring when one sees small boys rolling marbles on the sidewalks. Many men, no doubt, can recall how in their youth they were encouraged by a spring-like day to get out on the walks and roll the little spheres. Playing marbles is one of the oldest pastimes known to the human race. Marbles are said to have been in use as playthings by children from earliest times, and marbles are shipped to all countries. The fascination of the little rolling things has been felt by youngsters in all ages. A helpful public service has been performed by youth organizations which have established regular competitions in this game and have adopted rules for the play, and have seen to it that the contestants followed the rules and played fair. Rolling and popping marbles takes skill of hand and an accurate eye, and it gives the small boys a good start on sports.

Brian Robinson Well Known Figure In Hockey Circles Wed To Lolita Morin

St. Anthony's Cathedral, with its altars banked with Spring flowers, potted palms and tall lighted tapers was the setting for one of the season's loveliest weddings on Wednesday morning when Lolita Morin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Morin, 153 Pine street N., became the bride of Brian Robinson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Robinson, Coniaurum Property. The young couple exchanged their nuptial vows before Father Brunette. Throughout the Mass traditional wedding music was played by Miss Clair Vachon who also accompanied Miss Jeanine Morin who sang several lovely appropriate hymns.

The bride given in marriage by her father was radiant lovely in a gown of nylon tafeta fashioned with moulded basque, shirred puffed sleeves and a yoke of nylon net. The beautifully moulded skirt featured a puffed back that fell into a brief circular train. Her full length veil of net was caught to a Queen Anne headress of sequins and pearls and she carried a crescent bouquet of red roses and freesia. She also wore a lovely gold filled cross suspended from a slender gold chain.

She was attended by Mrs. Cecil Robinson as matron of honor, who wore a gown of jonquil nylon tafeta styled with fitted bodice, a nylon net yoke and berth of nylon tafeta. The skirt softly gathered featured a panned back. Her french hat was fashioned of mauve violets with tiny bows of yellow tafeta ribbon, and she wore matching gloves and carried a colonial of yellow and white carnations.

Miss Gertrude Morin, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and wore a gown of bluish pink corded tafeta fashioned with fitted basque, cap sleeves and a large berth of nylon net, with a ruffled edge. A braided headress with nylon flounce, long gloves and a colonial of pink and white carnations completed the ensemble.

Mr. Aubry Robinson, brother of the groom and Gerry Morin, brother of the bride attended the groom and Ron Morin, brother of the bride and Ted Ashley, the groom's cousin, ushered.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the many guests were welcomed by Mrs. Morin, wearing a chic afternoon dress of silver grey crepe with beaded peplum, black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a smart two piece dress of black faconne crepe with tafeta bustle and a tafeta bow at the neckline. Her hat was fashioned of pink flowers misted with black veiling and she wore a corsage of American Beauty roses.

Pouring tea and coffee from a table festive and gracious with lace cloth centered with a large bouquet of Spring flowers flanked by tall lighted candles were Mrs. Morin and Mrs. Robinson, assisted by Mrs. W. J. O'Brien, Toronto, Mrs. Aubrey Robinson, Mrs. Cecil Robinson and Miss Jeanine Morin.

For the honeymoon trip to Toronto, London and other Southern points the bride donned a smart suit of grey gabardine, and a hat of pearl grey straw trimmed with lilies-of-the-valley and a band of Paddy green grosgrain ribbon and Paddy green

Douglas R. Wilson Weds Helen Newton

The chapel of St. Peters Roman Catholic Church, Toronto, was decorated with standards of white stocks, for the marriage Saturday of Helen Margaret Newton, daughter of Mrs. Newton and the late Joseph E. Newton, well known former residents of Timmins, to Douglas Raymond Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Wilson, Shavinigan Falls, Que., Rev. F. W. Stone officiated.

Given away by her brother, Emmett Newton, the bride wore a gown of bluish satin with fitted bodice, yoke of Chantilly lace and a necklace of heirloom pearls. Her full skirt ended in a small train, and the fingertip veil was caught to a petalled Watteau headress. She carried a crescent bouquet of gardenias and little pink roses.

Mrs. John D. Bell was matron of honor, with Mary Taylor, junior bridesmaid, in crushed rose crepe and in ciel blue respectively, with matching headresses and carrying crescent bouquets of pink roses and pansies.

Donald Wilson was best man, and Kevin L. Newton ushered. The bride's mother received in a blue faille gown, with flowered hat in matching tones, and corsage of coral roses and white freesia. The groom's sister, Mrs. J. Usher, received for him. For the wedding trip to New York by plane, the bride travelled in a pale blue ballerina suit and a black straw hat with flower trim.

gloves. She also wore a handsome muskrat coat.

Following the honeymoon trip the young couple will take up residence in Hamilton, Ontario where the groom, who is a well known and popular figure in hockey circles plays with the Hamilton "Pats". Prior to that Mr. Robinson played hockey in Washington, Boston and for several years in the navy.

Out of town guests were Mrs. W. J. O'Brien and son Michael, Wilfred Peter of Toronto and Mrs. A. Sequin of Rouyn.

The groom's gift to his bride was a beautifully matched set of costume jewelry. Gifts to the attendants included gold-filled earrings to the matron of honor and bridesmaid and ties to the gentlemen.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained by members of the staff of the Bank of Montreal where she was employed and by the staff of the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

CANADA'S WAY OF LIFE . . .

A tree branches out

Timber and lumber for domestic and industrial uses are produced from thousands of square miles of our productive forests.

Rayons, artificial silks, and other textiles are made from wood-pulp.

Millions of tons of newsprint, paper, sash, doors, baskets, boxes, wrapping paper, cardboard . . .

Brooms, brushes, kitchen furniture, paper boxes, bags, stationery, silos, spools, handles and other products.

Fine Furniture, canoes, boats, small vessels; agricultural implements, railway rolling-stock, musical instruments and certain types of airplanes—all need wood in some form or another.

Imperial Bank of Canada is closely linked with development in the lumber and forest industries.
