Black River Election

Election results for the Black River Township Area are as follows, Reeve Leo Alarie, (Acclamation). Councilor sfior 1949 are:

- A. Boucher, Val Gagne 423 G. Perrault, Val Gagne 386 A. Brightwell, Shillington 379 J. Elliott, Holytre 376 Those unsuccessful were: O. LaDoucer, Nat. Gibson and Mrs. N. Elms. This election was the quietest ever held here, some complaining that even though notices were put in all Post Offices and Public places, they didn't know there was an election. It might be a good idea next year if they rustled up a good old-fashioned bandwagon, an election so quiet doesn't seem natural.

Partnership in Marriage Here's a story of real partnership in marriage, and a marriage that is a successful partnership is not headed for the rocks.

After the late war, three veterans started in business together. Their names: Maj. Marvin G. Schmid, Col. Taylor H. Snow and Maj. Adrian L. Fasse. Did the help shortage hinder them? Well, you can just bet that it did - for a time. Shortage of materials loom up as an obstacle? Naturally, but our story doesn't deal with that, nor with the shortage of offices and furnishings, for they settled the former by buying their own building, and they managed to pick up the necessary furnishings.

But they couldn't even by dint of hook and crook settle everything to their satisfaction. For one thing, they didn't have enough salesmen nor office help. So Mrs. Schmid took a course in bookkeeping under the direction of a certified public accountant and the bookkeeping problem was settled. Next up stepped Mrs. Snow saying "I just love selling," and then proceeded to prove it. But there were still letters to be written, inasmuch as Mrs. Fasse knew shorthand and typing, she took charge there, leaving her two small children for someone else to care for during the hours she spent in the office.

Naturally, you'll want to know what they made and sold: gadgets, clothes lines that required no clothespins. They also started with a special dustpan, but found that it infringed on the patent of someone else, so that was dropped.

During her selling experience, Mrs. Snow learned that housewives needed a specially designed spice cabinet, in order to save the bother of scrambling around for some small can or jar when hurried. (You see this was something a woman seller could talk about with enthusiasm.) It was discovered that a medicine cabinet was badly in demand. So with a few changes in the spice cabinet, a medicine cabinet was turned out.

It is hardly necessary to add that with such cooperation and enthusiasm, this company's business is now booming.
