THINGS TO FORGET

If you see a tall fellow ahead of the crowd,
A leader of men, marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud,
Would cause his proud head to in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet and guarded, and kept from the day
In the dark, and whose showing, whose sudden display
Would cause grief and sorrow and life-long dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or woman, a girl or a boy,
That will wipe out a smile, or the least way annoy
A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good thing to forget it.

Miss Lois Charron, bride-elect of September was feted at a lovely shower-tea on Saturday afternoon -- Hostess was Miss Shirley McDivitt and the delightful affair was held at Miss Charron's home, 101 Maple street north. The rooms were tastefully decorated with a profusion of fragrant flowers and guests spent a most enjoyable time socially. The guest of honor was the recipient of many beautiful pieces of crystal. From a table most attractive with lace cloth centred with a low bowl of cut flowers flanked by tall pink tapers, Mrs. B. McDivitt poured tea.

Invited to attend were Mrs. Margaret Gardine, Miss Vivian Pierce, Mrs. Margaret Shields, Mrs. Emily Alton, Mrs. T. MacDonald, Mrs. P. BRITISH FASHION FORTNIGHT IN LONDON: Several thousand buyers and fashion journalists from over fifty countries were in London for the Fashion Fortnight 1949 recently to see Britain's autumn ready-to-wear fashions. A display of coats and suits was organized by the Mantle and Costume Manufacturer's Export Group and held at Grosvenor House, Park Lane. This picture shows (left) a Letux model coat in blue/white check tweed with crossover collar, and (right) a Harella model brown/green tweed swaggar coat, the stole of which can be worn in several different ways. Note the large cuffs.

Lovely Fabrics Made In England Village

NEW YORK, Aug. 25th. -- (CP) -- From an old flour mill in the village of Clifford Chambers, near Stratford-on-Avon, a small new industry is sending fabrics to North America.

It took a Hungarian-born textile designer, Scottish woolens and fine English hand-loomed to create the industry, known as "Tibor's fabrics."

An impressive collection of the cloths has just been introduced to the American market by the Hambro House of Design, to be sold only to authorized decorators and department stores.

Tibor Reich, the designer converted the mill and trained local girls to hand-loom and only after much experimentation are they entrusted to the workers.

Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh chose one of the fabrics for their new home, Clarence House. It is a soft, tweedy textile with three-dimensional effect, in the oyster-stone color with a silver metallic thread glistening throughout.

The three-dimensional pattern is achieved by several means; through the use of colors, including several hues of individual yarns; through use of a variety of the yarns; and through the unusual weaves designed by Reich.

Among other handsome hand-loomed fabrics is an exotic maroon-and-white cloth in bold stripes, with a touch of gold. The maroon is made up of several tones of red.

A nubby material in white, graduated yellow and off-white stripes gives a futuristic effect, with the yellow stripes growing larger and the white ones smaller.

Y's Men Feature Group Discussion At Regular Meet

The regular meeting of the Timmins Y's Men's Club held at the Grand hotel dining room was chaired by President Basil Howse.

Special guest of the evening was Maurice Williams of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd. Mr. Williams who was the speaker of the evening, said that he would not do all the talking himself and that he proposed to have a group discussion with the members present.

Mr. Williams said, "I have chosen as my topic three statements from a book, Individualism and Economic Order by Frederick A. Hayek, who is a professor of Economics at the London School of Economics in London England.

(1) "We must face the fact that the preservation of individual freedom is incompatible with a full satisfaction of our views of distributive justice."
(2) "There is all the difference in the world between treating people equal and attempting to make them equal. While the first is the condition of a free society, the second means, as De Tocqueville described it, 'a new form of servitude.'"
(3) "What the economists understood for the first time was that the market as it had grown up was an effective way of making man take part in a process more complex and extended than he could comprehend and that it was through the market that he was made to contribute, to ends which were no part of his purpose."

The views and opinions of the members were expressed on the three statements. Mr. Williams was introduced by Max Davey and thanked by Archie Campbell.

Technicolor Eggs British Puzzler

LONDON, Aug. 25th - (Reuters) - Scientists here are trying to solve the mystery of the green eggs which are being laid by the thousands in egg-hungry England.

The eggs have green or khaki yolks which turn black when boiled. Some experts said that the hens were eating too much green grass. Others believed that it was because the birds were eating such weeds as shepherd's purse or pennygrass.

But now the situation has got beyond a joke. So many of these eggs are arriving at egg-packing stations that the ministry of agriculture has instructed its scientists to study the problem.

Normally, farmers receive 75 cents a dozen. With green yolks eggs are sold to caterers for baking and the farmers get only 65 cents a dozen.

C.N.I.B. Picnic Held At Buffalo Ankerite

The Canadian Institute for the Blind held a picnic for the blind of the district at the Buffalo Ankerite Park recently. Members of the local Advisory board were hostesses and they endeavored in every way to make the outing an enjoyable one for the blind people and their attendants.

A bus of Mr. Dalton's drove all over to the park, calling for them in the early evening, bringing them to their various homes.

Some enjoyed swimming while others relaxed on the mats and benches throughout the park.

Musical entertainment consisted of several numbers kindly played by David Matthews of Schumacher on his piano accordion and also violin selections by Mr. Beauchamp. During the afternoon ice cream and pop were served in abundance and later hot dogs, doughnuts, cake and coffee.

A special vote of thanks is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bowker who kindly permitted the use of the grounds, to the musicians and to all the members of the board for their helpfulness.

Tom Glaister has returned after attending the Canadian Legion Convention held at Ottawa.

Mrs. A. Hyrnen of New York City visited relatives and friends in town recently.
