POLICE COURT

No Lights

On July 20th, O.P.P. T. N. Holledge testified he was called to the river bridge ten miles from Hoyle where he found accused in his car. He told the constable he had knocked a man down who had been taken to hospital.

His statement to the constable was repeated. He had come from Hoyle with no lights on his car (they had gone out at Hoyle), and struck this man with his car. After the man had been taken to hospital he had waited for police, went back to Hoyle (still with no lights) and finally, returned to the scene of the accident.

There was no moon or stars. The night was too dark for the constable to see much even with a flashlight. He found a comb, part of the headlight of a car, and a shoe still laced up which was found to have been knocked off the victim of the accident. Later, paint flakes from the car were found and comparison with White's car proved they were knocked off it. This was at 12.45 a.m.

Dr. Johnson who attended McLachlan in Porcupine General Hospital, stated the man stayed two days in hospital suffering from shock, several abrasions to face and legs. White had never been involved in an accident before and he has been driving for 30 years.

Magistrate imposed a fine of $25 and costs with suspension of driver's license for three months.

Timmins Woman Writes School Book on Out-of-Doors, Published by Ryerson

Mrs. Jack Miner, 9 Hemlock Street, wrote a book, "Peter's Adventures in the Out-of-Doors," (Ryerson Press), for children, grades five to eight.

Mrs. Miner's pen name is Muriel Miller.

The book is illustrated by Viola Thomson, and, according to the fly leaf, recommended by the Departments of Education for Ontario and New Brunswick.

Peter Gillen, wildlife writer for the Toronto Telegram, recommended it in his column, which prompted the sale of two hundred copies the following week.

The following is an excerpt: Hunter Joe "Have you the worms, Hunter Joe?" Peter asked.

"Now, Mr. Peter," said Hunter Joe, "I'd think it was about time you learned how to cast Bait fishin's all right for youngsters. But it's the easy way. You don't give a fish a sporting chance. Fly fishin' takes skill. It's an art—a fine art. You want to be a sportsman?"

"I do, but—oh, well, all right; only I don't want to get just bites."

"Strikes, not bites, Mr. Peter."

"Strikes then. But couldn't I learn to cast some other day?"

"Some other day! Why, Mr. Peter, I've been fly-castin' for 30 years and I'm hardly more than a beginner now. Plenty of tricks to learn, and always will be. Takes skill to tease a speckled baby to a fly. Your father is the best fly caster I know. His line always runs out at the right angle. Yes sir, Doctor Simon can place the fly just where he wants it."

"If it's so hard, then, I guess I'd better start," decided Peter.

"It is hard at first, but it is more sport," put in Doctor Thurston, who had just joined them.

"Now in fly casting, Peter, the idea is to place the imitation of an insect on the water in such a way that the fish will rise to it. The fish strikes at the artificial fly and gets caught on the hook hidden in it. You keep your fly moving and your line taut, always remember that. And patience is the secret, son. Get the fun out of fishing and of being out in nature, whether you land a fish or not. The legal-sized trout is seven inches, you know, so you must not set up a howl!"

Tibetans drink an average of 30 to 50 cups of tea a day.

if you get an undersized fish and have to put it back.

"I won't Dad. I want to be as good a sportsman as you and Hunter Joe, and as mother was," said Peter proudly.

"Peter's Adventures in the Out-of-Doors," by Muriel Miller, for Grades five to eight, published by The Ryerson Press, Toronto).

SPORTSMANSHIP IN "CANADA UNLIMITED"

It was 1938. On the old Welland Canal, four Regina oarsmen trained vigorously for the Canadian Henley Regatta. The odds were all against them for they lacked an experienced coach...

and had trained on a shallow, man-made Regina Lake during the great Prairie drought.

On the Henley's first day the quartet scored an upset by winning the junior four-oared event. The experts goggled... but the best was yet to come. Showing the Regatta's finest burst of speed, in the senior fours the westerners outstroked champion oarsmen from Canada and the U.S., and walked away with the prized Dominion championship.

Canadian sportsmanship and teamwork have scored many firsts in the rowing world. And sportsmanship with teamwork helps you too, in work and play. Together they keep your scope for opportunity in Canada... unlimited.
