

Another good habit to get into is to be the opposite of careless--especially with fire in the forest. To get the habit of remembering to be careful with fire in the forest will prevent forest fires from starting; will save the terrible annual loss of timber and pulpwood trees; will save you from worrying all the way home:

"Did I put that camp fire out?" (You did if you used lots of water.)

"Did I put out that cigaret?" (You did if you crushed it out on a rock or threw it in the water.)

"Did I put out that match?" (You did if you broke it in two and held it until it was cold, or threw it into the water.)

To get the habit of preventing forest fires from starting is to prevent your town from becoming a ghost town.
