PLAY IT SAFE Fun, relaxation and exercise in the good ol' summertime can make a new man out of you.

An accident, too, can make a different man out of you - but you wouldn't like that kind of change!

Be sure to carry your safety sense with you this summer, not only behind the wheel, but also when you're relaxing and having a good time.

When you swim, don't swim alone, or in unfamiliar water, or too far from shore; and don't swim after you've grown tired or cold.

In a small boat, don't overload; don't show off with reckless tactics; keep everybody seated without moving around; be sure you know how to handle a boat; for extra safety carry life preservers in the boat.

Look out for impure drinking water, poison ivy, fall and burn hazards.

Be cautious with your smoking, your walking, and, of course, your pleasure driving.

Be sure to disinfect any wound promptly, even a small one.

Summertime always seems too short. Don't run the risk of clipping it any shorter by taking thoughtless, needless chances. Have a pleasant, safe summer - the kind you can get a bang out of without getting banged up.
