Friends of Jack Todd of the Bleachery wish to make it known that they are very proud of him upon his return from a very successful safari into the backwoods hereabouts. While in the bush (tangling daily with all kinds of untamed wild game) Jack captured many feet of movie film on wild life and another film on paddling, packing and portaging, etc., which he hopes to show around Town just as soon as they are ready.

The trip was not all "milk and honey" as he was heard to remark one night at sundown:

"If I should die,
Before I wake,
Don't bury me,
On Santoy Lake!"

P.S. Anyone wishing to tangle with the big ones should contact Jack who is even now making plans for another expedition into the wilderness.
