NATIONAL SAFETY CONGRESS

Fred Soughton and Alex Chisholm have just returned from the 38th. National Safety Congress, sponsored by the National Safety Council. At this year's Congress, Cola G. Parker, President of Kimberly-Clark Corporation, was the principal speaker in the Pulp and Paper Section, in which 402 separate pulp or paper units are represented involving some 200,000 persons. Fred and Alex both agree that Mr. Parker's address was without a doubt one of the highlights of the entire congress.

Fred Soughton had a real honour bestowed upon him when he was elected to the Executive of the Pulp and Paper Section as a member of the Visual Aid Committee. Fred has also been invited to be one of the principal speakers at one of the sessions of this Section, at next year's Congress.

Editor's Note: As the reader may note below!- Things are still going on in our mail department. To keep you posted, we print the latest letter - with no comment, - we have run out of comment. We are running out of patience.

Rural Route #1

Dear Hiram; -

You ain't answered my last letter yet but to-day I got to thinkin' while I was repairing the horse's harness.

I was thinkin' that ifin that feller up t' the south camp don't want cows in his bowlin' alleys, maybe he wouldn't mind ifin I put them in that there Tavern. Your cousin Zeke says that it would be right good place, but a feller down here says that its always full of odd lookin' ducks. I don't know nothin' about that, but I suppose you do.

And, Hiram, you go tell that Doctor at the Hospital that he don't have to move out right away as long as he don't make too much noise comin' and goin' nights. And the same goes for that feller at the Post Office as long as he don't make much rustles sortin' all his mail and parcels.

And Hiram, I'm aimin' on puttin' a fence acrost the road that the bus goes on and I don't want no one to leave the gate open. Them office fellers will hev to git up earlier in the mornin' cause I won't want them scairing the chickens.

But, Hiram, this is all a little before hand 'cause you ain't told me yet if you got the deed to that there plot of land. So, please hurry and answer my last letter.

Yours truly,
Clem.
