"IT HAPPENED SO FAST"

As part of my responsibilities, I am continuously visiting surgical hospitals and convalescent centers, to talk to workmen injured while in their employ. I rarely pass by a patient without asking him how he received his injury. In nearly every instance the answer is, "I don't exactly know, it all happened so fast."

Our Board processes 800 accident reports per day, and consequently we are fully aware of the suffering and cost of industrial accidents. We see plenty of evidence of accidents which could have been avoided. It is impressive to talk with a workman learning how to hobble about on an artificial leg; or studying a new skill, having now to wear an artificial arm; or to feel his way around in the early stages of becoming accustomed to total blindness. Any activity that may reduce the number of industrial injuries has our complete support.

In spite of the excellence of our compensation legislation, I know that the best surgical skill, the best hospital attention, the best artificial appliance, and the best wage compensation, cannot even begin to replace the loss of an eye, the loss of a hand, or the distortion of a backbone.

E. E. SPARROW,
Chairman, The Workmen's Compensation Board.

Ha! Ha! I shure been a-pullin' your laig this last while, but I guess you were glad to git my letters enyways. You see, Hiram, Maw joined the Army Girls in the last fracas and she got after those Legion fellers up your way to put on this here BARN DANCE on FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 24th. They said they would ifin I could git you to git people to go to it. So ---- I writ these letters.

From what I hear down here, it'll be some shebang but I hope it will be orderly like because them Legion Fellers come down here t'other day and took my brand new out-house t' Terrace Bay. They said some people up there never seen one and it was high time they did. And, Hiram, you go tell thet feller in charge of the South Camp thet I won't be puttin' my cows in his bowlin' alleys.

But, Hiram, I'll be at thet BARN DANCE and I'll hev some money for you ifin you take good note of the last poster. So, you skedaddle around and tell everybody thet cain't read up thar, that this is a-gonna be a real skahootin', hollerin' and stompin' affair.

You be shure to dance with your Maw.

Your truly,
Clem.
