"The Adventures of Tom Sawyer" by Mark Twain. For more than fifty years, generations of boys and girls and their mothers and fathers have chuckled over Tom's misadventures.

"The Wonderful Baker" by Mabel Leigh Hunt. This is a story that fairly makes the reader's mouth water.

"The Flowered Donkey" by Margaret Mackay. This is the story of a donkey owned by a family in China.

"The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" by Mark Twain. This story, like that of Tom Sawyer, has remained an inexhaustible source of entertainment for young and old for over half a century.

PARENTS BEWARE

At various locations throughout the Townsite there is considerable excavation and construction going on. These projects have a tremendous appeal to children to go and play around them. As you can well imagine, a very serious accident could occur by the children falling into these excavations or by being hit by some of the mechanical equipment in use.

Do it today - warn the children of these dangers. Don't wait until an accident happens.
