AT THE MOVIESSaturday Matinee - August 9/52 - 1:30 p.m.

"Corky of Gasoline Alley" with Scotty Beckett as Corky and Jimmy Lydon as Skeezi. Corky uncorks a new riot of laughs when his honeymoon ends in double in-law trouble. Corky's new bride, Hope, is visited by her cousin, Elwood, a grifter, liar and general nuisance. Elwood eagerly accepts Uncle Walt's genial invitation to stay with the Wallets. Corky tries to put Elwood to work in his restaurant and Skeezi tries to fit him into a job in his garage, but Elwood manages to be a complete misfit in both places. When Elwood tries out one of his inventions in Skeezi's garage, causing an explosion which wrecks most of the cars in the place, the younger Wallets conspire to rid themselves of the "menace".

Saturday Evening - August 9/52 - 7:30 p.m.

"Meet Danny Wilson" starring Frank Sinatra and Shelley Winters. The only obstacle to a happy life for Danny Wilson (Frank Sinatra) on his way up the ladder of singing fame, is Nick Driscoll (Raymond Burr) nightclub owner and racketeer. Because Driscoll is in love with the top entertainer in his nightclub, Joy Carroll (Shelley Winters), he gives Wilson a job. When she was in trouble, Wilson and his pal, Mike Ryan (Alex Nicol), who usually hands out the finishing licks in the fights started by Wilson, befriended her and she has prevailed on Driscoll to give Wilson an opportunity in the big-time.

TERRACE BAY BASEBALLERS
EARN DOUBLE VICTORY

Last Sunday, the local baseball team took the team from Marathon into camp in both games played here. In the first game, the visitors were completely outclassed when they were beaten 11-0. In this game Marathon were able to get only two men on base against the strong pitching of Bill Borsum and the errorless support of his teammates.

In the nitecap, the Marathonians came to life and gave the boys a real run for their money in a game that ended up 8-7 in favour of Terrace Bay. Manager Phil Stuart had juggled the line-up considerably for this second game and had Borden Ross and Chuch Fleming as a battery. But in the sixth inning he had to send to the bull-pen for Borsum to hold the visitors down while holding on to a slim one-run lead for victory.

All in all - a couple of real good ball games.
