LUNCH PAILS WIN S.H. MEMORIAL TROPHY

Heap Big Smoke -- Ugh no fire! that's what happened to the Paleface tribe last night at the local amusement centre.

The Lunch pails finally, after four years of trying, iced an aggregation of tumblers, boxers, wrestlers and hockey players, and won by the tune of 3 goals to nil.

Victory is so sweet! The trophy looks excellent in its new surroundings! and life can be beautiful.

On the whole it was a game worth attending and those who missed it are sorry, and those who didn't are sorry too -- a very good game all around!

Many old crocks made their appearance (briefly) on the ice, and showed up to some disadvantage to their respective team.

Also many young crocks were out there at a disadvantage too!

Oh well next year, maybe life will be beautiful for the Palefaces??? See page 8 for a complete rundown on this game.
