LIBRARY NEWSA Night to RememberWalter Lord

The author spent 28 years of research, tracking down survivors, rescuers, relatives and officials before scrupulously piecing all the facts together to write this incredible story of the sinking of the Titanic. He re-creates for you a minute by minute description of the nine hours between the time the ship struck the iceberg to its sinking.

Hentz-of Things Not Seen--Harriet H. Houser

When the authors seventeen year old son dived into too shallow water and was critically injured, the attending doctors told her he could not possibly survive. A most inspiring true story of a boys struggle to live, of the skill of doctors and others but mostly of a woman who found a faith within herself that nothing could defeat.
