Bare Feet in the Palace - Agnes Newton Keith

The author of Three Came Home and White Man Returns in her latest book tells us in personal and endearing terms of the eager, impulsive democracy which has come to the Phillipines with the election of President Magsaysay. It is the story of the few rich who have everything and of the many poor who live like slaves in "barrios". Overcrowded with practically no sanitation or good drinking water, but who now under the guidance of Magsaysay are on the way to a better life. (Cont. on next col.)

The Beast That Walks Like a Man - Harold McCracken

"The Beast That Walks Like a Man" presents in the order of history the best of all information relating to grizzly bears. The Indians had many bear legends and elaborate ceremonial practices as they believed the grizzly bear to be their paternal ancestor. Mr. McCracken is an authority on grizzly bears. He first hunted and killed them but later found hunting them with a camera far more rewarding and interesting. This book leaves no doubt that there was never a more ferocious beast on our continent.
