LIBRARY NEWS

An Episode of Sparrows -- Rumer Godden

This is a story of how two of the street children in a London slum made a garden where ordinarily not a blade of grass could grow. Rumer Godden has written a story that will touch your heart. It begins with the dropping of a packet of cornflower seeds on the pavement and ends in the changing of several peoples lives.

Major Thompson Lives in France

-- Pierre Daninos

This book is a delightful satire on both the English and French peoples way of life. The author observes Manuals of Geography and Dictionaries tell us that the population of Great Britain is forty-nine million souls and they ought to say, France is divided into forty-three million Frenchmen.
