KIWANIS CLUBS OF THE UNITED STATES AND CANADA HAVE PLACED 25 "PEACE MARKERS" ALONG THE 3000 MILE UNFORTIFIED BORDER BETWEEN THE TWO NATIONS-TO DRAMATIZE U.S.-CANADA GOOD NEIGHBOURLINESS

The first Kiwanis peace marker was put in place by Michigan Kiwanians at the Ambassador Bridge which connects Detroit and Windsor Ontario. This marker was set up on January 22, 1935, during ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the founding of Kiwanis. (Kiwanis International was established in Detroit).

Other peace markers were set up by U.S. or Canadian clubs working singly, in pairs or in groups, as the years went by. Plans are currently in progress to set up additional markers before the end of 1956.

Inspiration for the 25 Kiwanis peace markers was furnished by the establishment in 1925 of the Kiwanis International Good Will Memorial in Stanley Park, Vancouver, B.C. This memorial was set up by U.S. and Canadian Kiwanis clubs to signalize the lasting friendship between the two nations, and to commemorate the first visit of a U.S. President, in office, to Canadian soil. That president, a Kiwanian, was Warren G. Harding.

Each peace marker is located at an important port of entry between the U.S. and Canada. Though they vary in appearance each bears the following legend:

"This unfortified boundary line between the Dominion of Canada and the United States of America should quicken the remembrance of the more than a century old friendship between these countries -- a lesson of peace to all nations. Erected (date). Kiwanis International".

April 28th of this year marks the 138th anniversary of the signing of the Rush-Bagot Agreement which demilitarized the U.S.-Canadian boundary, as memorialized by the Kiwanis peace markers. April 22nd to April 28th will be observed by Kiwanians in both nations as U.S.-Canada Good Will Week. This will be the 35th consecutive year for Kiwanis observance of U.S.-Canada Good Will Week.
