LAURENSEN-DEJONGHE NUPTIALS

Friday evening, August 17th amid a setting of varicoloured gladioli. Rev. J. W. Cruikshank united in marriage, in a double ring ceremony, Marjorie Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Laurenson and Joseph Dejonghe, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Dejonghe in the Terrace Bay Community Church. Mr. E. Rowson presided at the organ and Mr. B. Lohr sang "Because" and "I Walk Beside You", during the signing of the register.

Attendants of the bride were Miss Margaret Sweet, maid of honour, Miss Gail Sweet and Miss Madeline Spencer, and the little flower girl was Darlene Larson. Lloyd Dejonghe attended his brother as groomsman, while another brother Andrew Dejonghe and Barry Marquis ushered. Reg Laurenson, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of tiered nylon lace over bridal satin, styled with Empire waistline and sweetheart neckline, edged in appliqued lace, and sheath sleeves pointed over the wrists. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion embroidered throughout with flowers of iridescent sequins was held by a tiara of pearls and sequins, and she carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses. Her jewellery was a double strand mother of pearl necklace and earrings, the gift of the groom.

The attendants wore waltz length gowns of net over taffeta, the strapless bodice outlined with pleated net and topped by sheer stoles. They wore sequin trimmed tiaras and mittens to match their gowns and carried bouquets of American Beauty roses surrounded by shasta daisies. Miss Margaret Sweet was in yellow, Miss Gail Sweet wore mauve and Miss Madeline Spencer was in light blue. The flower girl was attired in a waltz length gown of pink tiered net over taffeta, pink slippers and mittens and tiara, and carried a basket of roses, mauve and white shasta daisies.
