BABY SITTERS

At this time of year there is an ever-increasing use of baby sitters, and this introduces other serious problems. It has been found that many baby sitters do not even know the address of the home in which they are minding children, and could not give the correct address to the Fire Department should a fire occur. It must also be remembered that a baby sitter is not as familiar with a house as those who live in it.

Any outside person given the responsibility of the children while the parents are out should be carefully briefed as to location of EXITS and the telephone, the Fire Dept. telephone number, and the address and telephone number of the place to which the parents are going. These instructions should be in writing as well as verbal.
