"Professor Preston at Home" - Elizabeth Corbett

The author of Our Mrs. Meigs has once more written a charming, simple story. Umbrella in hand, Charles Preston, professor and widower, meets Mrs. Alice Ames, a middle-aged widow from Staten Island, whose very being radiated more sunshine than he had experienced in a lifetime. They were married and their marriage was to prosper.

The story gently unravels the problems of their grown-up children and their friends.
