US OLD-TIMERS

Those of us over forty years of age can be proud of our accomplishments. Collectively we have supplemented and strengthened the heritage left us by our fathers. The result is a country that is well developed, yet fast growing and still measured largely in terms of its potential.

Individually, we have all made our own kind of sacrifice for our children. We have all worked to give our sons and daughters the kind of life we ourselves were not fortunate enough to have--education, standing within the community, for some of us even enough food.

Others of us left our own countries to make our homes in this land. We left friends and the life we knew to make a better life for our families. And we brought some bad along with the good.

Since we were born in an era of much more tuberculosis and since we have lived a longer time during which to become infected, we now are the chief source of TB infection to others. Many TB victims are infected by members of their own family, primarily by older persons.

Nor can we know who among us may be innocently victimizing our own families for TB may be symptomless even while contagious.

YET IT CAN BE DISCOVERED WITH X-RAYS

When we go for a chest x-ray examination we can proceed for no better reason that to protect the health of those for whom, most exclusively we have worked a lifetime.

Those who do not submit themselves must think little of their contribution.
