PLANNING A CAMPING TRIP THIS YEAR?

Officials of the Department of Lands & Forests in Sudbury have compiled a "grub list" for two persons for one week "plus a few items of equipment easily forgotten in the last minute rush."

The list: One pound coffee, six small cans or one pound powdered milk, one pound tea, four packages of powdered drinks, one pound pre-cooked beans, two pounds bacon, 1/2 lb. dried beef, two pounds cured meats, (add fresh meat for first meals), one pound shortening, four pounds of potatoes or one pound dried potatoes, one package dried onions, three loaves bread, two pounds canned butter, 1 1/2 dozen eggs, one tin pepper, 1/4 pound salt, three pounds sugar, one package biscuit mix, one pound pancake flour, one pound flour, two packages corn-bread mix, two pounds dried fruit, one pound raisins, two pounds cheese, two packages pudding, one pound minute rice, one pound rolled oats, four packages dried soup, one pint syrup, one jar jam, two pounds cookies, one large box wooden matches.

Also take: first aid kit; waterproof match box; two or 2 1/2 pound axe with a 26 inch handle, a six inch file and whetstone, 30 feet of 1/4 inch rope or sash cord, flashlight, plastic water pail.

Because weight is such an important factor, many woods travellers rule out pressure cookers and gasoline or gas stoves. Experts of the Department however, are inclined to favour the cooker since meals can be prepared much more quickly. The stove you take along also saves a good deal of time and trouble in hunting suitable fire wood, particularly in early travelling when the woods are wet. Less danger of leaving a forest fire behind, too.

AND JUST IN CASE

Just in case the above list isn't quite enough or you lose some of it here are a few tips on how to cook bear meat - providing you get the bear.

All bear meat should be washed in cold water and then soaked for fifteen minutes in vinegar (better add vinegar to that list) (one cup of vinegar to a gallon of water). The meat should then be dried in a cloth.

BEAR STEAKS - roll steaks in one cup of flour:

mixed with two tablespoons of dry mustard, salt and pepper. Cook slowly in butter until steaks are well done. Serve with mushroom sauce.

BEAR (Spanish) STEW - Fry bear meat in a deep fry pan with one piece of garlic, three celery stalks, one green pepper and one onion. Add salt and pepper. After well fried add one can of tomato paste, one can of whole tomatoes and a half tspn. of tobasco sauce. Let simmer for half an hour.

Maybe we'll print Indian Bear Meat next week.
