curiosity. He also admitted that he was going away with a most favourable impression of the art movement in this area. What impressed him most, he said, was the group's presentation of the Canadian Landscape and its desire to paint outdoors. He felt that isolation from other groups, movements and painter's styles was a contributing factor in the emergence in district artist's work of a true and rugged rendition of the Canadian landscape which is being lost in other parts of our country. He was also greatly impressed that a group like this provided the opportunity for talented youngsters to participate in instruction that would develop and keep their interest.

This course was sponsored by the Terrace Bay Art Club in conjunction with the Recreation Association and the Northwestern Ontario Area Art Association. Members from five Art Clubs participated as follows:- from Terrace Bay - P. Boudreau, B. Pineault, J. Cummings, C. Smith, G. MacDonald, H. Farrel, W. McKechnie, H. Middaugh, S. Gaulin, G. Boyd; from Red Rock - L. Brown, N. Currie, L. Swanton, C. Hall, P. Kadzielawa, R. Egans; from Marathon, M. Johnston, A. McDonald, H. Rumsby; from Schreiber - N. Gray, S. Sivitski, E. Stewart; from Nipigon - M. L. Mann.

On the weekend of May 7th and 8th an overnight hike was held. There were six boys and one leader. When they arrived at the Mouth of the River they pitched the tents. After a delicious lunch they cleaned the campsite and passed tests. After supper a campfire was held, then "lights out." The following morning Scouter Sam was served in bed. Several tests were passed after lunch. At 2:00'clock they began to pack up and were home by 4:30.

The meeting of Friday 13th was also held at the Mouth of the River. After flagbreak Shawn Hayes of the Lion Patrol was invested. Next, for practice, the Lion Patrol built a reflector fire, the Panther Patrol built a chariot and the Antelope Patrol built a reflector trapper's fire. After the flag was lowered the meeting was dismissed.
