FIRE DEPARTMENT NEWS

Carelessness can be fatal when using Gasoline.

Now that summer is here and holidays are close, fishing is in full swing. Let's not get careless with gasoline. If you have an outboard motor for your boat use caution when storing gasoline. Remember - one pint of gasoline has about the same explosive power as one pound of dynamite. Too many people think that because gasoline looks like water it acts like water. REMEMBER it is not the fuel (gasoline) that ignites - it is the vapor - and there is always vapor where gasoline is unconfined. What usually happens is that the gasoline becomes vaporized and the unseen spark or a lighted match does the rest, often with fatal results.

Safety Rules for Gasoline

1. Never take chances with gasoline. It is one of the most dangerous liquids we handle.
2. Always store it in tightly fastened cans - never in glass bottles.
3. It should never be uncovered in the house, or where the fumes can reach open flames or sparks.
4. Do not use it for cleaning; get a safe cleaning preparation.
5. Never have more around than what will be considered safe to store.
6. Never smoke when mixing gas and oil for your outboard.
7. Never get careless -- it can be fatal.
8. For a gasoline fire use a chemical extinguisher or throw earth or sand on it. Try to smother it. A stream of water will only spread the fire.

Don't think an empty drum or can of gasoline is not dangerous - an empty tank is more dangerous than a full tank.

Don't allow gasoline to be stored in your house. If a small quantity has to be stored have it marked GASOLINE, DANGEROUS! Never store it in glass bottles which can be broken.

Don't allow a gasoline engine to operate in an unventilated room - the fumes are fatal.

Don't ever get careless with gasoline or it might be your last deed of carelessness.

ment was explained in some detail by Mr. Soughton, Post Master W.E. Cavanaugh spoke a few words and Mr. Layman, on behalf of the Editors, conveyed their appreciation of the arrangements made by the Commerce Committee to entertain them and said they were all very impressed with the district. He also paid tribute to Mr. Colin McDonald of the Dept. of Travel & Publicity -- told a Pat & Mike (or was it Jock & Sandy?) story and said he would always remember Terrace Bay.

A question and answer period elicited information on (1) Where does your wife buy her clothes? (2) How do you address a Mayor? (3) Is Hydro Governmental controlled? (4) is it financed by Govt. appropriation (5) Why are electric power rates lower than in the U.S.? (6) Has Hydro potential been developed almost to its fullest? Questions on reforestation-types of trees used etc., all were answered.

The group broke up, some to go on a conducted tour of the mill and others to look over the Townsite, by car and on foot.
