CURLING CLUB LOUNGE CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSES

The Curling Club new Lounge building construction is progressing fairly well. Members, through volunteer labour, have the footings poured and a four-foot wall of concrete poured on the footings ready for construction of the cement block walls. The contractor for the cement block walls, it is hoped, will be finished by the end of August and then the structural steel for the roof is to go up as soon as the steel is delivered. After the walls are up there will be lots of work to do laying pipe and backfilling inside the building.

Volunteer work crews are responding fairly well but scheduling of same is a problem for everyone. A schedule for the five crews has been drawn up for four weeks. Each crew is scheduled to work one night each week and one Saturday. The Pipe crew is not scheduled as they will proceed with the pipe work more or less independently. It is hoped that when the crews know they are scheduled for approximately the same night each week they will be out in full force. This will give all members plenty of notice and crew leaders will not have to call the crew members. The schedule for crews is listed below. This schedule, plus the list of crews, will be given to the crew leaders and will be posted. If a crew member misses his crew night it is hoped he will show up another night. Help is required any time so members are welcome as many nights as they have available. For special projects it may be necessary to double up the crews.

There are three Building Committee Co-Chairmen on the project. It is planned that one of these men will be available for some time each evening so that crew leaders will know what work is to be done.

All Curlers and prospective Curlers are urged to turn out on their crew night to keep the ball rolling to assure the building is ready for the Curling season.
