four years. The other is that the building must be finished and completely equipped by March 1963. The incorporation of the existing gymnasium at Terrace Bay into such a building would again reduce the overall cost to the taxpayer.

Perhaps there are other considerations that a S.C.S. graduate of eighteen years ago can not see from this distance. Such arguments as are raised in opposition to a district high school at Terrace Bay would have to be weighty indeed to offset the distinct educational and economic advantages of a joint understanding; weightier by far to have delayed these many months and thereby all but lost the government grants that would completely underwrite all technical and commercial construction.
