LEADERS ATTEND QUETICO COURSE

Fifty-eight playground supervisors attended a 4-day leadership training course at the Quetico Conference and Training Centre last week. The training will prepare the supervisors for their summer's duties in conducting playground programmes on the Terrace Bay Recreation Committee playgrounds.

Attending the course from Terrace Bay were Janis McInnis, Jean Hopper, Evelyn Knauff, Kathy Cavanaugh and Ainsley Middaugh.

The 4-day course covered six different playground activities - crafts (Marlene Lindsay, Atikokan); nature study (Claude Garton, Port Arthur); athletic games (Peter Krystalowich, Port Arthur); special events (Bill Young, Dryden); music, drama, storytelling (Edith Shaw, Port Arthur) and group games (Sharon O'Brien, Fort William). Programme planning was under the guidance of D. M. Earle, Marathon. C. M. McIntosh, Quetico Centre Director handled the session on "role of the playground leader".

Attending the course were playground and C.G.I.T. leaders from twelve Northwestern Ontario communities. The supervisors will return to their communities to work for the summer months using the skills and insight learned to provide for imaginative and creative play for children.

Sincere appreciation is extended to the local Moose Lodge and Kiwanis Club who have donated uniforms to the Pony leagues and Little leagues respectively. This assistance, along with the provision of travelling, should make our outside competitions even better this year.
