SAFETY RECORD ESTABLISHED

On August 30th the employees of the Kimberly-Clark Pulp and Paper Company, Terrace Bay Mill, completed 300 days of operation without experiencing a disabling injury. This safe day record started on November 2nd, 1962 and represents more than one million man hours of safe operation.

This is the third time during the 15 years of the Mill's operation that the employees have worked more than a million man hours.

Many safety awards have been won by the people at the Terrace Bay Mill, the most recent of these being the Robert J. Askin award from the Ontario Pulp and Paper Makers' Safety Association for their exemplary safety performance during the years 1958 through 1962.

Disabling injury free records of this type are the result of every employee accepting a responsibility to prevent accidents.

The current objective of the personnel at the Terrace Bay Mill is to achieve an accident-free record for 1963.
