Of special interest is the 5 year course being taken by Dale Sparkes, opening a further field of education for students not concerned with university training. This was found through the High News, a magazine for high school students, and offers a combined apprenticeship and academic course under the auspices of trade and labor. Dale will be able to take part at least, of his apprenticeship in steam-fitting at the Lakehead. Dale was released from the Army to return to school by his own wish, and although he had only a month's studies before Christmas, got his year.

There was a young lady named Harris,
Whom nothing could ever embarrass,
Till the bath salts one day
In the tub where she lay
Turned out to be plaster of paris.
