HERE AND THERE

Carol and Holly Brown celebrated their seventh birthday on Saturday inviting eight friends to their party. Games entertained the children and they left for home with favors after the party supper.

Back in time for Christmas are Lois and Russ Downey and family, Sheila and Jack Todd and children, Harry Coe and Joe Butler. All had been on loan to the mill in Shasta, California. Arriving earlier were Francis Helmink and Wally Fisher.

Home from Northwood High School in Fort William are Jacqueline Yates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Yates, Beverley Dodge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dodge, Pat Kennedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kennedy and Grant Solly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Solly.

Errol Moores arrives this week from Scollard Hall in North Bay to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Moores.

Rose and Jim Garriock have departed with sons Jimmy and Dennis to spend Christmas with Jim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Garriock Sr., in Rorke-ton, Manitoba.

Janice Bond with Ellen and Erick is home from Barrie, Ontario to spend Christmas with her family, Mr. and Mrs. Sig Erickson. They will be joined before Christmas by her husband Tim Bond and brother Fred Erickson who attends school in Barrie.

THE PASSING OF THE CORNERS

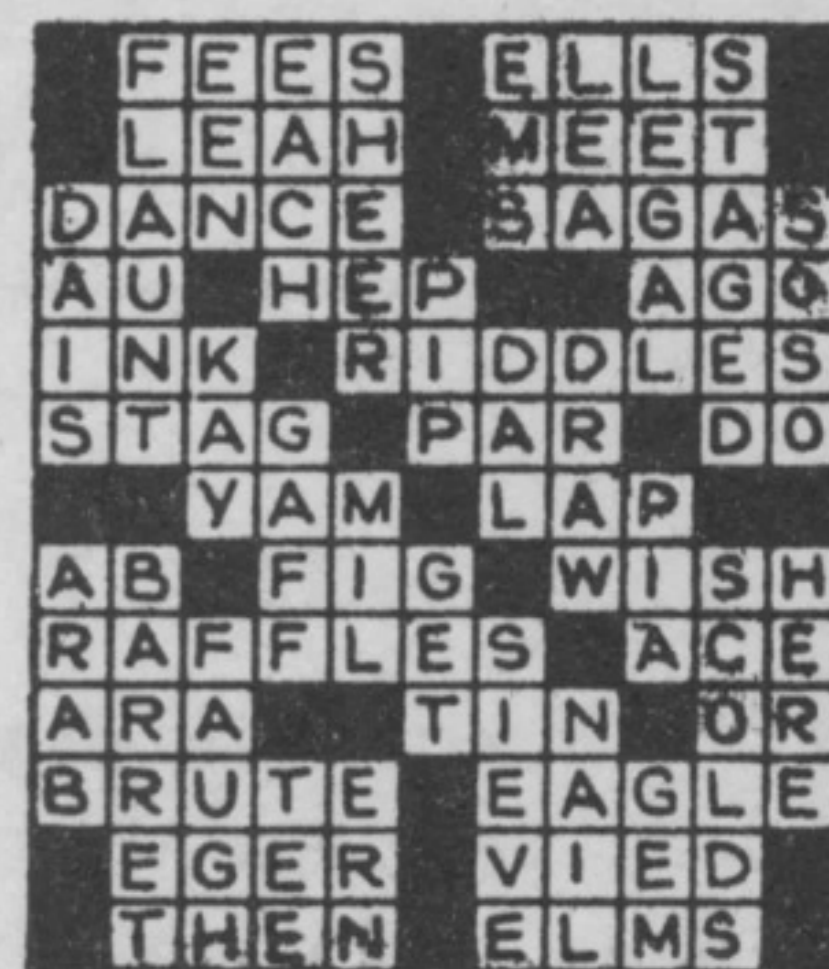

IT IS AN INDISPUTABLE FACT that there are more accidents at "intersections" than there ever used to be at "corners." Nor have intersections, and cutoffs, the personality that corners used to have.

Corners used to be places to stop. Children went to school there. There was likely to be a church. At the country store you could mail a letter, buy some sugar and, better still, catch up on all the news.

Corners had names. Nowadays it is difficult to describe to a visitor where to turn to get to the summer cottage.

If the traveller on a super-highway puts on the brakes, it is likely only because the driver ahead has failed to signal a turn. He comes to a screeching stop and then speeds on his way. To nowhere.
