KINETTES PRESENT FASHION SHOW

The Kinettes held their annual fashion show in the High School auditorium with 350 attending. Mrs. Gladys Irving of Fort William was commentator and Mrs. Lorraine Weaver, club president, welcomed the audience.

The draw prize was won by Mrs. Dominic Commisso with Bill Hiller drawing the lucky ticket. The models were Shelby Kirkpatrick, Alda Holland, Bruce Hiller, Roger Tremblay, June Small, Nancie Spillane, Betty Reid, Rosa Speziale, Bea McBride, Lorraine Bedard, Mesdames Lloyd Schaan, John McIsaac, Gordon McParland, Edward Gerow, Jack Ridsdale, Cosimo Costa and Leonard Huard, with Jody Davis and Ray Potvin showing the men's clothes.

Clothes ran the gamut from beach, swim and play togs through sleepwear and casual attire to pretty frocks, suits and coats, each worn with correct accessories. New fabrics were noted and attention drawn to the practical and decorative industrial zipper. Bonded material, clothes particularly useful for travel because of their wrinkle-free material, jackets both short and in Chanel length, matching or contrasting, were seen with many models. Dusters which double for several uses, smart allweather coats, the popular skimmer and apparently permanent shift in many modes, all received close attention. The choice of models in all age and size groups made the showing both interesting and practical for would-be buyers.

Since all the Kinettes were actively engaged in many capacities during the show the coffee break, with doughnuts and small cakes, was managed by Kinsmen Bill Weaver, Peter Speziale, Bill Miller, Bob Turner, Tony Speziale, Barry Harper, Jim McCuaig, and Ray Guillet.

Mrs. Weaver thanked the local hairdresser, Tony Commisso and cosmeticians Eileen Williamson and Emelyn St. Jean who donated their talents.
