JOINT ANNOUNCEMENT (Continued from P.1)
Government

The government of the new Church will combine both the episcopal and the conciliar systems. Both corporate and personal ministries will be exercised in it, 'and the bishops, the presbyters and deacons, and the congregations of the faithful shall have their place,' states the report. As is the case in the present church governments, the congregation, session, synod, provincial or regional assembly, and general council are to be the governing bodies.
Conversations since 1943

A preface to the committee's report signed by co-chairman Rev. A. B. B. Moore, President of Victoria University, Toronto, and Rt. Rev. G. P. Gower, Bishop of New Westminster, B.C., notes that conversations on union between the two churches have been carried on since 1943. When asked why it has taken so long one spokesman replied: "human nature"
