☞ THE WAR ON POVERTY is not a new war. It is only a new name for the age-old struggle for existence, which has been the lot of man ever since he first appeared on the earth. This new name is the invention of politicians of the welfare-state variety who look on men as a race of immature, underdeveloped beings, quite incapable of surviving

☞ WITH THE OBJECTIVE of reversing or nullifying the biblical prediction "for you always have the poor with you," there is a drive afoot to make the affluent and those who manage to get by on their own efforts provide for the have-nots. In such a situation the scales of justice have difficulty in always making a perfect balance. Some even say that the poor are the only privileged. (reprinted-Printed Word)
