AN UNUSUAL OVERSEAS WEDDING

One of the most unusual marriages of a district resident, was that of Marjorie Cottam, of White River, and Don. Leadbeater, of Nova Scotia, which took place while they were serving in England with the RCAF.

Marjorie's grandmother, Mrs. Pickering, was delighted when Marjorie paid a visit, bringing her fiance, to the many relations who still live in and around the village of Flimby, in Cumberland, and shortly persuaded them to be married in the little church there.

Two aunts were Marjorie's attendants, and keeping up an old custom, (the original meaning of it long-forgotten), as the bride and groom turned from the Altar they were met halfway down the aisle by two small, nervous cousins who presented each with a silver horse-shoe centred with a black velvet cat. In further tradition, when they emerged from the church the bride distributed a sack of pennies to the children gathered there to greet them.

Among the many relations attending the wedding was an uncle of the bride, Joe Pickering, who at one time had been secretary in the White River YMCA, and since his return to England, a manager in the famous Harrod's store in London.

Mr. and Mrs. Leadbeater now live in White River.
