MUD - Continued from page 4 of beer and wine.

While industrial and therapeutic uses for mud are multiplying rapidly it still finds its widest and most sophisticated application in the oil business...as an indispensable ingredient in drilling for oil. In 1964 the oil industry used 65,000 tons of bentonite mud.

Mud is used in rotary drilling where it performs a multitude of necessary functions, including cooling and lubricating the bit, and cleaning out rock chips from the drill hole. The Review adds that Imperial Oil bought 6,600,000 pounds of mud in 1964 -- worth $200,000 -- "enough to make a mud pie for every child in Ca nada."

Forest fire losses of merchantable timber and property are direct, tangible and readily apparent. However, other damage is not so clearly recognized. Fire ;may kill the tiny young trees and so destroy the mature timber crop of 20, 50 or 100 years hence. Fire will change the character of the forest. Through repeated fires, millions of acres will change from productive forest land to unproductive wasteland.
