GORDIE HOWE MEETS SCHREIBER NAMESAKE

Gordie Howe was one idol who lived up to all expectations. Although unavoidably detained in reaching his appointed time in Schreiber, he left behind many shining joyous eyes as he presented various trophies.

An important small gentleman was Gordon Howe Fumerton, looking very small beside his illustrious namesake.

Tony Speziale, school teacher, was one of 10 winners of autographed hockey sticks.

Reg Bailey, president of Schreiber minor hockey Association, was chairman. Gordie was presented with a trophy from the association to mark his visit to Schreiber, and in turn presented the following trophies to local hockey players:

Beginners' most valuable player, Keith Scott; peewees most valuable player, Ricky Spadoni, and rookie of the year, Paul Martin; group B peewees most valuable player, Ted Winters.

Bantams most valuable player, David Bailey; most points, David Bromley; most gentlemanly, Stanley Spadoni.

Picture postcards were given out, all of which were later autographed by Gordie. Adults shared in this last part of the program.
