THE BIBLE TODAY

For Publication During the Week of
 Dec. 4 to Dec. 10, 1966

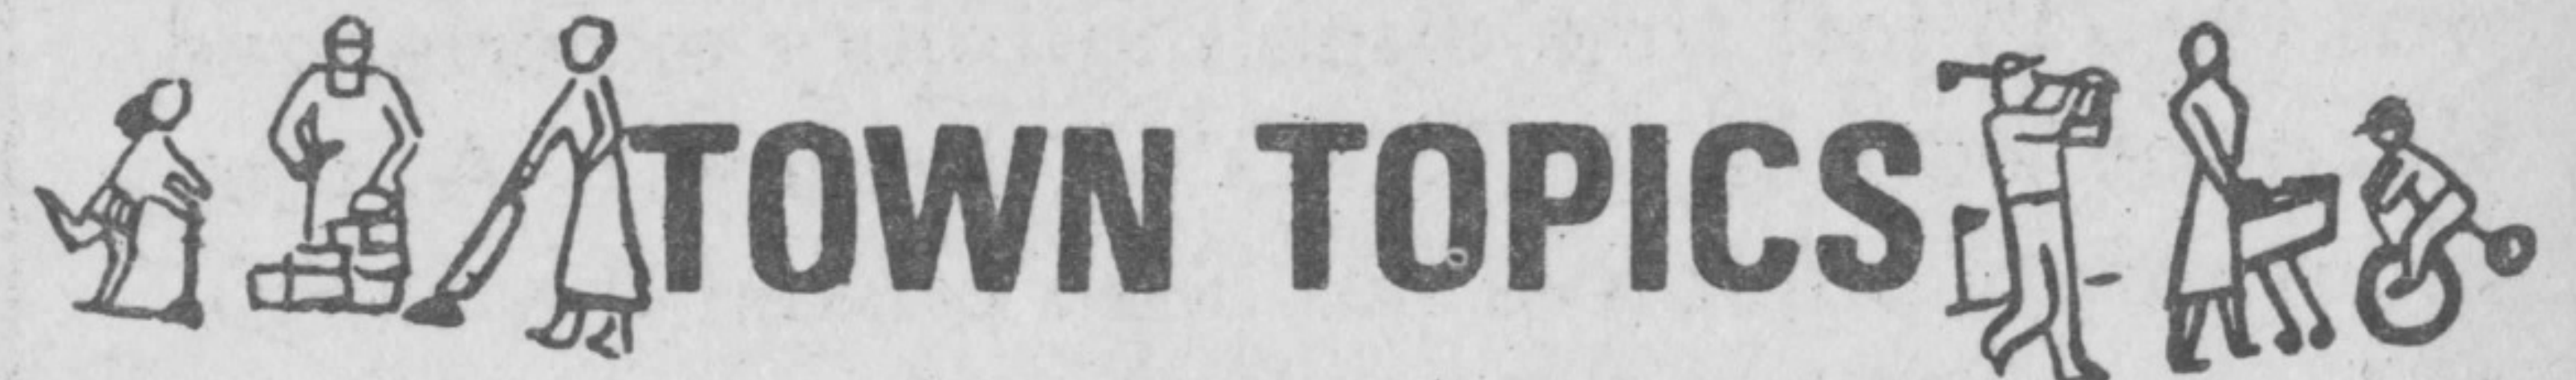

The first Bible edition produced by a Bible Society for mentally retarded children was published recently by the Netherlands Bible Society. The first in a series "What the Bible tells us," the edition contains the story of the birth of Jesus from the Gospels of Matthew and Luke, under the title "Jesus is born."

The edition was planned by a special committee composed of Protestant and Roman Catholic experts in the education of retarded children, and representatives of the Netherlands Bible Society. Under their professional guidance, a Dutch translation was produced with very simple, short sentences. The book, which is strongly bound, is largely composed of illustrations in four colours, specially designed for the needs of this type of child. A gramophone record is also available which can be used with the book, giving the same Bible text, with hymns and music and a simple meditation.

The project arose as the result of a plea from teachers of mentally retarded children, for whom no suitable books on the Bible were available.

Interest in the project has already been shown in other countries, and some Bible Societies are planning to use the illustrations for editions in other languages.
