

CENTENNIAL OUTING HELD BY LOCAL GROUP

To herald 1967 and recapture some of that lost pioneer spirit, several Terrace Bay neighbors participated in an old-fashioned family outing complete with all the time-honored ingredients of good food, good cheer and good children.

A log cabin besides the beautiful Jackfish Lake some 10 miles east of Terrace Bay provided an authentic setting, and power toboggans, though not as romantic as horse and sleigh, provided an exhilarating dash across the frozen lake.

The 1967 pioneers found out many things about themselves and about the founders of our country. The admitted quite frankly that they were not as hardy as those early settlers, nor did they wish to be.

That friendly, romantic scene around the blazing fire? There was nowhere else to be unless you wished to freeze.

Those handy little shovels hanging near the fireplace? Instead of scooping hot coals, they were used for rescuing the beans when the bean crock split.

A reason more practical than the dictates of fashion was found for those long homespun skirts that the ladies wore.

They concealed the numerous sets of underwear worn for the sake of warmth.

Modern children may never experience the jingle of sleigh bells or the thrill of galloping horses, but if their zest for work and play, endurance of cold and push for adventure is passed on to future generations, it will ensure a bigger and even more glorious celebration of Canada's 200th birthday.

And the adults, though they found they had gone soft, decided over good cheer and spirits in their modern homes, that these neighborly get-togethers will continue through the year with a similar outing to welcome 1968.
