OPENING LEAD: DIAMOND FOUR

We have mentioned in previous columns, the artificial two club response to partner's opening one no trump bid. If you remember, at that time we stressed that the opening bidder would play the hand and thus receive the opening lead in the closed (strong) hand. This conventional bid can be extended to be played at all levels of no trumps openings such as our example. South has 22 high card points and opens the bidding with two no trump. North has a weird distributional hand with only four high card points and would prefer to play game in one of the majors. His three club bid indicates a preference for majors and asks partner to bid a four card major if he holds one. Should his partner not have a four-card major then the hand would have to be played at three no trump. South's bid without the major would be three diamonds, but since he holds four spades he can comply with partner's request easily. Game is assured as the North-South pair has the normal twenty-six points and has at least nine spades between the two hands. West's opening diamond lead would be critical to the game try at no trumps. If East wins the diamond with the king and switches to clubs, any South at three no trump would certainly be down two. However, because of the convention, our North-South can easily wrap up twelve tricks and a good score.

enjoyable time they had.

KIMBERLY-CLARK 'SPIEL HELD

The Kimberly-Clark Trophy Bonspiel held over the weekend has been claimed the most successful held for this prize honor. Twenty rinks entered for the mixed event and stiff competition was displayed before the winners of the three events could be acclaimed.

The J. Chapman rink of Mary Hale, B. Randa and G. MacDonald took first place over R. Piche with Aggie Sinkins, M. Packalen and Mary Claire Kennedy in the A Event. B Event winners R. Thompson with P. Wellings, J. Shubaly and M. Desormeau held R. Gavin, A. Sinkins, D. Rafalant and A. Makala to second place. H. McLeod, S. Duquette, G. Churney and P. Phillips were C Event winners over J. Teniuk, M.
